Ohio Assembly Runs Out Of Steam, Quits

5 Key Issues Covered By Solons During 100 Legislative Days

COLUMBUS (AP)—The 100th Ohio General Assembly ran out of steam yesterday shortly before midnight and called it quits.

The House broke off its deliberations at 10:30, 90 minutes before its own deadline. The Senate forged ahead another 44 minutes and then bowed out.

Both Houses will meet in skeleton session Saturday for the signing of last-minute bills. Actual final adjournment will come Friday, July 31, in a session which will clean up last minute details and consider any votes handed down by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The Assembly in 100 working days came to grips with five key issues: A record state budget, highways, welfare problems, school financing and code revision.

The record of the Republican-dominated Legislature:

IT ADOPTED a state budget for the next two years of $836 million, more than 10 per cent above the 1951-53 biennium.

It worked out a multi-million dollar highway financing program including an axle-tax on trucks, a penny-a-gallon gasoline tax increase and a proposal to be submitted to the voters for a $500 million bond issue to speed a road construction program. It also split the highway department by creating a new Department of Highway Safety.

It voted nearly $22 million for welfare institutions and split the sprawling welfare department by creating a new Department of Mental Hygiene.

It approved a record $236½ million for schools, $231 million in a direct subsidy to school districts. (Continued on Page Two)

High Court OKs District Tax Holdout

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today refused to require Delaware and Union county auditors to levy a .3 mill Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District tax on property in their counties.

The decision affects all 17 counties in the district. The counties are Fayette, Pickaway, Crawford, Delaware, Franklin, Highland, Madison, Marion, Morrow, Pike, Ross, Sandusky, Scioto, Seneca, Union, Vinton and Wyandot.

The district made a preliminary .3 mill levy in 1947 and another last year. Prosecutor Clyde E. Lewis of Delaware County challenged the second levy in an action brought directly in the Supreme Court.

The court said a tax within the state of an assessment, and refused to require proceedings for collection pending determination of whether the tax fell inside or outside the state constitutional 10-mill limit on property taxes.

The court said a tax within the 10-mill limit should be submitted to a county budget commission for approval. If outside, voters should have a chance to approve or reject the tax. Neither course was followed by the district.

On that ground, the court denied the district's request for Delaware and Union county auditors to place the tax on their tax lists and duplicates.

In a related action, the court refused a request by taxpayer Wilbur J. Nance to order the .3 mill tax levied on "all public real property" in Franklin County. The court said such property was exempt.

Jabara Collects His 15th MIG Kill

SEOUL (AP)—Maj. James Jabara, America's first jet ace, bagged his 15th communist MIG today to become the world's second-ranking ace.

Jabara was on the 96th combat mission of his second Korean tour. The victory also made him the second triple jet ace in history.

Today's victory puts Jabara within one MIG of the all-time record held by Capt. Joseph McConnell of Apple Valley, Calif., who bagged 16. Jabara downed six MIGs on his first Korean combat tour.

Train Derailed

Filter Center Urges Circleville Resume Air Watch 'Immediately'

Officers in charge of the Filter Center in Columbus Wednesday asked that something be done "immediately" in Circleville to establish a 24-hour air watch for hostile aircraft.

Bernard Tait, civil defense director for Pickaway County, said the request was received by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff last Monday. Radcliff is in charge of the Circleville branch of the Ground Observer Corps, the unit normally assigned to any air watch duty.

Radcliff last year waged a long battle to have an observation post manned on a 24-hour basis at El-sea Airport, north of the city. However, volunteers for the job gradually dwindled and the post finally was abandoned.

Tait said prospects for reviving the post are going to be "rough" in view of the reaction to Rad-

Senate Opens Debate On Tax Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed bill to extend the excess profits tax for six months, a major item in President Eisenhower's 1953 legislative program, comes up for Senate debate today.

Leaders in both parties were supporting the bill and confident of passage.

There was a chance it would be passed and on the way to Eisenhower's desk by tonight, giving him a triumph in the fight that so far has raised the thorniest problems faced by his administration on Capitol Hill.

Nearly all of the trouble came in the House, where naughty Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.), a bitter foe of the excess profits levy, kept the extension measure stalled in his Ways and Means Committee for many weeks.

In contrast, the Senate has acted with great speed. The House passed the bill last Friday; Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) called his Finance Committee together yesterday and the measure was approved at that session, with no hearings.

Millikin's strategy aimed at steering the measure through without any change in the House version. This would avoid a conference with the House at which Reed would be the top negotiator for that branch.

In this, he had firm backing from veteran Sen. George (D-Ga.), the senior Democrat on the group.

Both senators obtained pledges from a number of colleagues not to offer pet amendments.

Plane Inventor's Tax Case Studied

CLEVELAND (AP)—U. S. Tax Court Judge Marion J. Harrow has taken under advisement the government's $126,000 income tax claim against C. Gilbert Taylor, Alliance plane inventor.

Taylor's son, Lt. Robert H. Taylor, 31, and his daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Sharp, testified in their father's behalf Tuesday.

The inventor claims it was a strictly business arrangement when he took the two into his plane parts business as partners back in 1943. The government insists Taylor merely used the arrangement to split his income among his family.

Chinese Open New Attacks On Warfront

Uneasy Lull Broken By Savage Thrusts Riding Two Prongs

SEOUL (AP)—The Chinese tonight renewed savage attacks on the East-Central Korean front with a two-prong, 3,000-man assault south of Kumsong.

The attack broke a day-long lull in the biggest Red offensive in more than two years. The new assault, backed by tanks, was believed aimed at a main Allied highway.

It was preceded by Chinese probing assaults in the sector that began at dusk.

A combination of stubborn South Korean resistance, driving rain, and a blistering curtain of Allied artillery fire had temporarily stalled the massive Red offensive along a 20-mile front.

But an uneasy lull hung over the bloodied Kumsong bulge where more than 80,000 Reds ripped into Allied lines.

AS STURDY ROK troops braced themselves against attack in the approaching darkness, Allied light planes reported sighting numerous company and battalion-size build-ups. Some of the sightings were made in the Kumsong River area, where the ROKs withdrew Tuesday to the South bank under orders from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, head of the 8th Army.

Earlier today, he flew to the front for the second straight day and said the line had been stalled.

Several small attacks by Red companies about 150 men each were reported late Wednesday afternoon east of Kumsong in the embattled sector.

Heavier than usual military censorship in Seoul and Tokyo covered news reports describing the depth of the Red penetration.

The sharp lull was unusual in a Chinese offensive. It remained to be seen whether it was a temporary (Continued on Page Two)

Ike Emissary Sees Truce If Reds Sincere

SEATTLE (AP)—Walter H. Robertson, President Eisenhower's emissary to South Korea, said last night the agreement he reached with President Syngman Rhee should bring an armistice if the Communists are sincere.

Robertson, an assistant secretary of state, brushed aside charges made by the Communist Peiping radio that his talks with Rhee had placed a time bomb in the way of an armistice.

"There were no agreements between the Republic of Korea and the United States governments which in any way would interfere with an immediate implementation of the truce," Robertson declared. "We could sign a truce tomorrow in good faith with the Communists."

The Rhee agreements require that a political conference be called within 90 days after a truce is signed. The conference would be aimed towards peaceful settlement of the Korean War.

At the end of another 90 days after the conference is called, the situation is to be reappraised. If it should develop that the Communists had used the talks to stall and infiltrate South Korea with subversives, the United States and South Korea agree to walk out of the conference together and determine what to do next.

"Our objectives are the same as those of South Korea," Robertson declared. "We want a unified Korea as much as they do."

Ship Owner Asks For Exoneration

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Kinsman Transit Co. wants federal court to exonerate it from liability in the sinking of its ore carrier Henry Steinbrener with a loss of 17 lives.

The company contends that a storm of "hurricane force" struck the vessel in Lake Superior last May 11, causing heavy seas to carry away three hatch covers and allow water into the holds. It was the storm, rather than any fault of the crew or the owners that caused the sinking, the petition said.

Proposed McCarthy Investigations Of Truman Chilled By FBI Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two proposed investigations by the controversial Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) have run into dead-end streets.

One, in which McCarthy threatened to haul up Former President Truman, was scotched when the FBI assured the senator that Truman did not withhold any information he received from Canada about an atomic spy plot.

In the other, the senate's all-Republican probe panel was in a quandary on whether to call intelligence official William P. Bundy for questioning.

A little more than two weeks ago, while Truman was on his first trip East since leaving the White House, McCarthy said there had been "constant reports" that the ex-President had not turned over to the FBI a list of some 150 Soviet spy suspects received from Canadian authorities.

McCarthy fired off a letter to Atty. Gen. Brownell asking whether the Justice Department and the FBI ever got such a list from Truman. He called this a first step toward deciding whether to ask the investigations subcommittee to call Truman as a witness.

In New York at the time, Truman told newsmen he had no comment because "what I could tell you, you wouldn't print."

In answer to reporters' questions today, McCarthy said, "I've gotten assurances from the FBI that Truman did not withhold any information which he got from any Canadian source, including MacKenzie King, in regard to espionage."

Big 3 Hurl New Challenge At Soviet On German Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States, Britain and France posed an immediate challenge to Russia today to join in a four-power foreign ministers meeting aimed at reuniting East and West Germany.

The call for a session next autumn on Germany, and on completing an Austria independence treaty, was agreed upon by American, British and French foreign ministers in a five-day conference which ended with issuance of a communique last night.

Notes from all three Western governments were prepared for dispatch to Moscow within 24 hours.

The foreign ministers also issued a warning to the Reds in Asia that, if they break an armistice with a new attack on South Korea, the United States, Britain and France will again go to war.

The proposal on Germany represents initiative by the West to put squarely up the Kremlin—in the face of its internal Beria purge and in the light of anti-Communist unrest in East Germany—a challenge to do something definite about one of the world's worst sources of tension.

Secretary of State Dulles, Acting British Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault also called for restoration of "true liberty" to the Soviet satellite peoples of Eastern Europe.

They announced that if those countries achieve freedom the door to unity with the community now being created in Western Europe is open to them.

On Far Eastern problems, the three ministers announced that economic embargoes against Communist China would be continued indefinitely after an armistice and that the policy of barring Red China from the United Nations

Republicans said a list of Republican recommendations was submitted by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) to the Department of Agriculture six weeks ago.

Stevenson Quips French Setup

PARIS (AP)—Adlai Stevenson arrived in Paris today and quipped that he would have come here sooner but was afraid French President Auriol would ask him to form a government.

Stevenson, who lost his bid to form a U. S. government in the 1952 presidential election, was referring to France's recent 37-day cabinet crisis.

Winding up his world tour, Stevenson will stay in France until July 22. He leaves England July 28 for the United States to make a report on his trip to President Eisenhower.

Threatened Phone Strike Here Averted

A threatened strike of employees of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. in Circleville and three other Ohio cities was averted Wednesday by an agreement between negotiators of the company and the CIO Communications Workers Union, terms of a new contract covering 723 workers in 39 exchanges were outlined.

They include: A wage increase effective today boosting plant workers' hourly pay on an average of 13 cents and traffic, commercial and accounting employees' pay about 8 cents.

Provisions for an additional holiday, separation pay, improved evening and night differential payments, town wage reclassifications and improved differentials for service assistants.

All non-supervisory employees of the Circleville exchange are union members.

would continue pending further consultation.

Britain and France joined with the United States in pledging to work for peaceful unification of Korea.

The three warned Red China against using prospective peace in Korea for new aggressions elsewhere in Asia. They said also they had considered measures for winning the war against communism in Indochina.

If Russia accepts the bid for a foreign ministers meeting on Germany and if this meeting results in steps toward German unity, U. S. officials said it could lead to a Big Four conference at the Eisenhower-Malenkov level.

Pending the proposed autumn session, however, there reportedly is no plan for a conference with the Kremlin at the top level.

Informants reported that the foreign ministers had removed many of the problems which would have come up at the postponed session of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel at Bermuda. The understanding therefore was that though this meeting could still be held, there is no longer an urgent need and no plans were worked out for bringing it about.

Search Ends For Victims Of Air Crash

HONOLULU (AP)—The Hawaiian Sea Frontier has called off the air-sea search for victims of the Transocean Air Lines passenger plane crash Saturday 350 miles east of Wake Island in which 58 persons perished.

Fourteen mutilated bodies were recovered from shark-infested waters before the search halted at 4 p. m. yesterday.

The Navy said the Standard Oil tanker Lombardi sighted two more bodies but was unable to recover them.

The Navy transport Barrett, which first came upon the plane wreckage, radioed that the plane crash apparently was caused by an explosion.

The Barrett added that there was "no possibility of finding survivors alive."

The Barrett was taking the 14 bodies—nine women, three men and two children—to Guam. It is scheduled to arrive there Friday.

The Barrett said none of the victims had on life belts and that all but two were nude. The ship added there was no evidence among the victims or the debris that the passengers had been prepared for an emergency landing.

The companies have proposed issuing bonds and unsecured notes to finance a $420 million program to provide power for the Southern Ohio atomic energy project.

Talks Labeled Make-Or-Break By Spokesman

'Distinct Possibility' Of Breakdown Seen In New Negotiations

PANMUNJOM (AP)—An authoritative source says a showdown is coming between Allied and Communist truce negotiators tonight in a secret session which will "make or break the talks."

"There is a very distinct possibility of another breakdown in the talks," the source said. He added that the veil of secrecy will be lifted from the negotiations if there is a breakdown.

There were strong indications the showdown would come over Red demands for the recapture of non-Communist Korean prisoners freed last month and ironclad guarantees from the U. N. that South Korea would honor a truce.

The source said the next negotiating session "will be the showdown. The meeting will make or break the talks."

The source, who could not be identified, gave his estimate of the truce situation after the Chinese Communist radio claimed that U. N. Command negotiators "walked out" of Wednesday's truce meeting.

BUT PEIPING radio made it clear they would be another meeting tonight at 9 p. m. EST.

The Peiping radio said: "The other side unilaterally declared a recess and walked out of the meetings."

A U. N. Command spokesman said only "No comment. We never comment on Communist propaganda broadcasts."

The negotiators met for 21 minutes Wednesday and the Allied delegation announced afterward that another session would be held.

Allied officers here were openly pessimistic over changes of an early armistice, but elsewhere there was continued optimism. (Continued on Page Two) timism that negotiators would agree soon.

Allied officers in direct contact with the negotiations said the Reds have taken a tougher position and are insisting that the U. S. Command provide concrete guarantees that South Korea will observe an armistice.

These same officers, who refused to be quoted by name, said the big Communist attack on the East-Central Front indicates the Reds do not plan to sign a truce soon.

The Communist radio at the North Korean Capital of Pyongyang said last night that 90 per cent of the 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners freed from Allied camps last month now are in Pohang, north of Pusan on the east coast.

THE RED RADIO attributed its information to a special correspondent in Panmunjom.

The broadcast said that since the prisoners now are concentrated in one place, the Allied claim that they have melted into the civilian population and cannot be recaptured does not hold water.

The Reds have insisted on the recovery of these prisoners since the first big group fled from U. N. stockades on orders of President Rhee June 18.

Allied spokesmen declined to comment on the Red broadcast.

A South Korean Defense Ministry official said some of the released prisoners are in the Pohang area, but he denied emphatically that 90 per cent are there.

Sport Car Races Due On Aug. 9 At Lockbourne

What is a sports car? What will spectators see at the Ohio Sesqui-centennial National Sports Car Races at Lockbourne Air Force Base on Aug. 9th? What are these cars that whiz around the track at speeds exceeding 150 miles an hour?

The French have 50,000 words to describe a sports car. The Federation d'Automobile of Paris, the great-grandfather organization which controls all international racing, wrote an entire book on the subject.

But for Americans, a better definition might be, "A little bucket of bolts with a few hundred horsepower." In everyday jargon that just about explains a sports car. It accelerates like a rocket, handles like a dream and costs like everything!

Most sports cars are built in foreign countries. However, due to mounting interest in the sport in this country, there are some models being turned out here.

SPORTS CARS are not built entirely for racing. In fact, they are used for everyday driving as well as all-out competition. It's handling characteristics have to be experienced to be believed.

Imagine blasting into a sharp curve at 100 miles an hour with perfect safety. A standard-make automobile would upset on the same corner at 60. By shifting into an acceleration gear, a driver can pass three trailer trucks on the highway in less time than it takes your family car to pass one.

Despite the fact that it weighs only half as much and has twice the horsepower of a standard American car, the sports job holds the road far better, and can be controlled perfectly at any speed even on a rough road.

When the oversize brake pedal is hit, the car responds like hitting a brick wall. The low center of gravity keeps the sports car on the road when your family car would be in a nearby field with its wheels in the air.

The races at Lockbourne Air Force Base on Aug. 9th are being sponsored to raise money for the airman's living improvement fund at the base.

It adopted, after a seven-week study at the session's start, a totally revised code of Ohio laws.

It killed, or failed to pass, such legislation as:

Fair employment practices.

Legal bingo.

A total repealer of movie censorship in Ohio, although it later exempted newsreels from the censor's scrutiny.

Legal greyhound dog racing.

Here, spelled out briefly, are the high points of the major legislative programs:

HIGHWAYS—

An axle-mile tax on big trucks with three or more axles to collect a levy of one-half to 2 1/2 cents a mile.

A penny-a-gallon motor fuel tax, increasing the state's levy to five cents a gallon.

Combined yield of the two taxes, estimated at $43 million a year, will be spent by a new highway construction council on main inter-city highways.

The $500 million bond issue for a speeded-up road building program will be on the ballot in November for a final decision by the voters. The alternative: A pay-as-you-go road building program.

The new Department of Highway Safety will combine the present state highway patrol, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and the bureau administering the state motorists' financial responsibility law.

WELFARE—

The welfare department split is designed to place in the new Department of Mental Hygiene all mental and penal institutions and leave with the present department all public assistance programs.

Early in the session an emergency $8 million appropriation went to the state's penal institutions. Later, another $13 million were appropriated for construction and repair of mental institutions.

SCHOOLS—

The Legislature upped the state school subsidy to a record $231 million with most of the increase going to needy school districts. In a last-minute compromise, big-city school districts got some additional money. The subsidy for the last two years was $208 million, but because of increased school enrollments would have reached $215 million without change in the old law.

The Legislature devoted the first two months of work to simplifying and streamlining Ohio's laws. The Bureau of Code Revision worked six years to group related laws and eliminate deadwood.

It will become effective Oct. 2. The code last was revised in 1910.

Besides highway program levies, the only other major tax increase fell on running race tracks. Legislators boosted the tax on pari-mutuel betting more than $30 million a year.

Local governments (cities, counties and townships) got $40 million for the next two years, a half-million more than two years ago. They wanted $56 million.

The state's surplus melted under a $45 1/2 million appropriation for capital improvements.

The Ohio Un-American Activities Commission will be continued until Jan. 31, when the attorney general will take over its activities.

Subversive organizations were outlawed. Public employees who refuse to answer question of properly constituted committees or knowingly belong to subversive groups may be fired.

Motorists convicted of driving while drunk will have to spend at least three days in jail under a new state law.

Kiwanians Hear Petroleum Theme

"The Great Oil Industry" was the theme of an address given by John L. Marsh, executive secretary of the Petroleum Industry of Ohio, during Kiwanis Club meeting Monday night.

Marsh told Kiwanians there is more horsepower contained in farm machinery in the U. S. than in all of industry. He also told the club the oil industry would like to be a free enterprise, just as any other business.

Guests for the Monday meeting were Leslie May of Circleville and Clyde Wellingford, affiliated with the Ohio Petroleum Industry group.

Frank Marion will tell of his role as a delegate to the international convention of Kiwanis in New York City during the next Kiwanis meeting.

School Chief Quits

WILMINGTON—Carl H. Shanks, superintendent of Clinton County schools for 21 years, resigned his position last night. He said he was going into the business field. He has been president of the Ohio Education Association.

Leading Aides Rally To Help Ike's Aid Fund

WASHINGTON (U) — President Eisenhower rallied some of his most persuasive aides around him today as he sought to ward off a new congressional slash in foreign aid funds.

Eisenhower invited members of a House appropriations subcommittee to breakfast with him at the White House and arranged to lunch with 23 members of the Senate appropriations group.

To both sessions, the President summoned Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen, Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the new North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander; and Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Parsons, White House liaison man with Congress.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate committee said in advance he expects a presidential plea for foreign aid appropriations near the $5 billion level.

But both Bridges and Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the House committee made it clear they believe Congress is in a mood to cut rather deeply into foreign assistance funds.

Gruenther, scheduled for testimony at a closed session of the Senate committee today, apparently sounded the administration's policy line when he told the House group yesterday that Western Europe may lose confidence in the United States if there are heavy money slashes.

The NATO commander said Europe is listening to Russian peace overtures but "they haven't swallowed them yet."

5 Amendments Going On Ballot

COLUMBUS (U) — Ohio's voters will decide on five changes in the state constitution Nov. 3. The proposed amendments would:

Permit the state to issue $500 million worth of bonds to finance new highways.

Provide four-year terms for state officials and legislators.

Create a state board of education with power to appoint a state superintendent of education.

Make Negro as well as white citizens liable to service in the Ohio militia.

Repeal a number of "deadwood" sections of the Ohio Constitution.

Mail Improving

WASHINGTON (U) — Seven Ohio cities are among the 183 major communities which will get improved mail service beginning next Monday. Akron, Canton, Columbus, Dayton, Springfield, Toledo and Youngstown will have extended window service, later collections.

Strike Awaited

COLUMBUS (U) — The state capital today prepared for a city-wide bus driver strike that appeared certain to begin at midnight. The Columbus Transit Co. has refused a proposal for a 60-day mediation period.

VFW Building New Addition

Approval of a building permit Wednesday gave the go-ahead signal for construction of a $25,000 addition to the Circleville Veterans of Foreign Wars building.

The Circleville VFW unit, Henry Page Folsom Jr. Post, No. 3331, plans to add to the rear of the present building at 217 N. Court St. The large club room will be used for dancing and post meetings.

Construction plans also call for a basement under the new room, which will be of concrete block.

Spokesmen for the project said it is tentatively scheduled for completion in about three months. They said Loveless Electric Co. is handling the contracting job.

Approval of the building permit was announced by the city zoning and planning commission.

Senate Defeats Bricker Proposal

WASHINGTON (U) — The Senate today ratified three NATO treaties, including one allowing the trial in foreign courts of U. S. servicemen accused of off-duty offenses. The vote was 72-15.

Ratification followed heated debate Tuesday on a move by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to give U. S. military officers complete jurisdiction over civil crimes committed abroad by U. S. servicemen. This was defeated 53-27.

Findlay Getting GG In Polio Battle

COLUMBUS (U) — The state health department has sent a shipment of 450 cubic centimeters of gamma globulin, anti-polio serum, to Hancock County to help ward off a polio outbreak.

Twenty-one persons were inoculated with the serum in the Findlay area yesterday. Five cases of polio have been reported and one death recorded from the disease in the last eight days.

Eisenhower was guest of honor at the get-together put on by the 48 first-term legislators. He spoke for a half hour, then answered questions for two hours.

Chinese Open New Attacks On Warfront

delay due to the soggy weather, a genuine lack of Chinese power, or that the Reds were satisfied with their gains so far.

THE SIZE OF the gains were restricted information by order of the 8th Army. But while solid, they did not seem in themselves any real peril to the Allied position.

Red infiltration units were reported as much as four miles behind the Allied main line.

Light spotter planes that flew through rain and low clouds reported the Reds were shutting artillery, supplies and fresh infantry toward new positions.

Bomb and rocket-laden planes, their engines warmed up, marked time for a break in the clouds to roar northward toward the swarming Chinese.

On the front, Allied forces were fully alerted for further Red assaults. Units were sorted out and redeployed over the bloodied sector west of Kunhwa to the Pukhwan River. Muddy roads were clogged with supply trucks headed toward the front.

Some exhausted soldiers sprawled out asleep on the ground.

Others sat by the side of the road, opening blisters and washing swollen feet in muddy water.

ROK soldiers continued searching for infiltrators left over from the big Red push. Two Chinese infiltrating units were shot up just before noon.

The South Korean troops who bore the brunt of the Red attack received a personal message from President Syngman Rhee. He told his troops to stand firm and die if necessary to stop the Chinese invaders. He praised them for the fight they have made and exhorted them to even greater efforts.

"This is the greatest achievement of the ROK Army," one high ranking Allied officer said. "The four ROK divisions, with only partial help from American artillery and supply units, fought one of the great defensive battles and at noon it looks as if they had won it."

Freshman GOPsters Impressed By Ike

WASHINGTON (U) — Four dozen Republican freshmen in the House plied President Eisenhower with food and questions last night and came away with comments like "stimulating" and "inspiring."

"He certainly has learned an awful lot about politics in six months," said Rep. Cretella (R-Conn.). "He has a good grasp of all the problems of the world and the nation."

JESSE GULICK

Jesse Franklin Gulick, 73, of E. Ohio St., died Tuesday afternoon in his home following a brief illness.

Mr. Gulick was born Jan. 17, 1880, near Darbyville, son of Augustus and Emma Hoover Gulick.

Surviving him is his widow, Josie Switzer Gulick, whom he married in 1905; three sons, Earl, Carl and Mack, all of Circleville; three daughters, Mrs. Gladys Rutter and Miss Margaret Gulick of Circleville and Mrs. Helen Flannagan of Laurelville; a brother, Edward, of Columbus; three sisters, Mrs. Laura Grabbil of near Lockbourne, Mrs. Belle Trego of Commercial Point and Mrs. Nelle Reed of Columbus; and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. S. C. Elsea officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Friends may call in the funeral home after 2 p. m. Thursday.

MRS. EDNA EUBANKS

Mrs. Edna May Eubanks, 59, of Bainbridge, died at 8:35 p. m. Tuesday in Chillicothe hospital following an illness of six months.

Mrs. Eubanks was born June 13, 1894, in Pickaway County, daughter of Addison and Sarah Davis Purcell. She was a cook in Bainbridge schools for 14 years.

Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. Thelma Stanley and Mrs. Mary Frances Purdam, both of Bainbridge, and Mrs. Geraldine Knisley of Nurnburg, Germany; a son, Henry, of Bainbridge; a sister, Mrs. Herbert Taylor, of Chillicothe; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in Bainbridge Church of Christ with the Rev. Norman Ward officiating. Burial will be in Jackson Township cemetery here.

MRS. FRED HOEHNSTEINE

Funeral services for Mrs. Fred HoeHNSTEINE, 90, of Columbus, who died Tuesday morning in St. Anthony's hospital, will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday in Grumlich Funeral Home, Columbus. The body will be brought to Circleville at 2 p. m. for burial in Forest cemetery.

Mrs. Bowers Gets Ashville Position

Mrs. Harold Bowers of Ashville has been employed to teach sixth grade in Ashville elementary school this fall.

Mrs. Bowers was hired to succeed Mrs. Bion Bradbury, who resigned to take a teaching post in Fairfield County.

In addition, County Superintendent George McDowell said Mrs. Polly Briggs Tilton has resigned her position as third grade teacher in New Holland. No replacement has been named.

Rep. Frances P. Bolton said most of the Ohio Republican congressmen were thoroughly disturbed over the situation, including the current elections now being held in every Ohio county for township and county PMA committeemen.

The Republicans here call this a "rush" election by Democratic committeemen to get themselves reelected for another year.

"But it's too late to do anything about that now," said Mrs. Bolton. "The elections are almost over."

Is Business About To Tilt Down A Little?

Economic Experts Divided On Future In Marts Of Trade

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The big debate today is whether business is about to tilt downward. The stock market appears to think that a Korean truce, coupled with Russian internal weakness, would turn the trend and give the boom its comeuppance.

But most businessmen say they don't go along with this view. And many others stress the continuing momentum of the boom.

"If a boom is at a crest, it is stubbornly refusing to get on with the business of receding," says Albert T. Sommers, business analyst for the National Industrial Conference Board.

"There has yet to appear any statistical evidence outside of stock and commodity markets, that business expectations for the near term have as yet been much altered."

Those who believe a downward tilt will be apparent by the end of the year point, however, to several first signs:

Home building is easing up a little. Mortgage money is hard to find in some localities and financing costs are higher. Older houses are easing in price and new ones are a little slower in selling.

Steel output is slumping a little, as usual in summer, and while a pickup is expected next month, few steelmakers predict that the second half production can equal the first half's record.

Slipping farm income is cutting demand for farm machinery and may be accounting for some drop in household appliance output.

Automakers plan a record output this month, but many used car dealers say sales are disappointing.

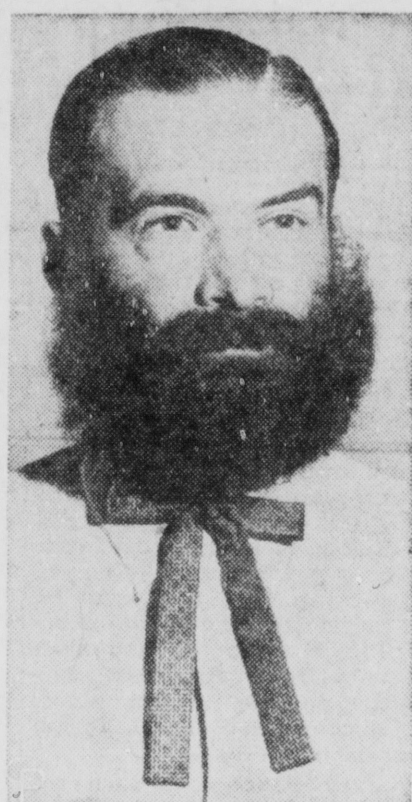

Korean truce talks and the confusion over what the Kremlin's inner turmoil holds in store lead many businessmen to fear further cutbacks and cancellations of defense orders here. That could lower industrial production and might cost some jobs.

But Sommers points out that as of now most signs are still strong.

First - half corporation profit statements, now rolling in, look good. For the third quarter at least, steel order books are bulging. Consumer demand for goods held strong in June. Soft goods manufacturers report ordering by merchants is good.

Hole In Cliff Traps Youngster

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Alvin McCully, playing with some friends in a park yesterday, saw a large black hole in a rock cliff 15 feet above ground level, clambered up and poked his head inside.

The hole was smaller than it had looked. Alvin couldn't pull his head back out.

His chums tugged and pulled. They called police, and Patrolman William Hutcherson arrived to do some pulling and tugging too. Alvin stayed stuck.

Finally Hutcherson got a screwdriver and a hammer plus a towel to wrap Alvin's head in. After 25 minutes in the dark, Alvin was chipped free, unhurt.

Guilty Conscience Returns Loot

NORWAL, Calif. (AP)—A voice on the telephone told Deputy Sheriff G. E. Rowley yesterday: "I just held up a service station in North Long Beach. I'm sorry I did it, and you'll find the money in an envelope on a window ledge outside your station."

Sure enough, the envelope was there, containing $77 cash and $350 in checks, the exact loss reported by the victim.

ature's research center here would like to buy them—at slightly higher than the current market price.

Scientists need the calves for feeding tests and unless more twins are obtained in a hurry the experiments will be seriously handicapped.

Officials say they can learn as much from identical twins as they can from a dozen unrelated calves.

How Can Bride Control The Cash Without Hubby Feeling The Pain?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The big problem of a June bride in July, when the honeymoon is over, is to teach her husband he can't throw away his money the way he did when he was courting her.

Her task in at least two out of three American homes is to take over the spending of the major part of the paycheck herself.

How can she do this without or without leaving her husband secretly feeling he weeded a lady con artist?

I asked a group of older married men how they would advise a bride on this problem. They expressed flat disbelief that any woman, even a tender bride, would listen to advice on matrimony from any man. But they were flattered at the idea, strange as it seemed to them.

They divided into two camps. "The best thing for her to do is to let her husband handle the money until the landlord threatens to throw them out because they are behind in the rent, an auto loan company repossesses their car, and the department stores cut off their credit," was one view. "Then he'll be glad to turn the family finance over to her."

"The thing for the bride to do is to take over the handling of her husband's income gradually," said one old-timer. "A newly married man is jealous of his money, because he has been used to spending it himself."

"You have to break him to the harness gradually, just as you do a colt. A horse gets so he has to take the harness. But if a wife breaks her husband in too fast he will resent her and the harness, too, all his life."

His fellow wise men nodded gravely.

"The best way is for the bride to divide the dough into three piles each payday—one pile for him, one for their bills, and one for her," said another. "Naturally, her own pile at the start will be so small that even her husband will object that it's unfair."

"But as he gets used to letting her pay the bills, she gradually changes what's in the piles. She begins to put more $5 bills at the bottom of her pile, more $10 bills in the middle pile, and more $1 bills on her husband's pile. Before long he will be asking her for lunch money three days before payday, and never know really what's happened to him. It's the old shell game."

"That's right," said a third. "Another thing: She should keep a family budget book. It doesn't make any difference what she puts down in it. No husband can understand a woman's arithmetic. He just wants some evidence that she thinks she knows what she is doing."

A fourth elderly married man suggested the bride should never make a report on the family finances until she had fed her hubby a big dinner.

"No man will start a quarrel about money when he has a full stomach and his shoes are off," he said. "He doesn't have the strength."

The group then voted unanimously the following recommendations to brides:

1. "As a young husband is upset and feels lost the first year of marriage, see that during that time he is allowed the consolation of buying a few pretty things just for himself—at least one suit, a pair of shoes, three shirts and a necktie now and then."

2. "Don't treat yourself to a fur coat that first year. Be brave. Make him feel guilty because he is getting more new things than you are."

3. "After that you can buy yourself anything you want. He'll never know it's new anyway unless you start bragging."

Dallas, Ft. Worth Eye Rain Project

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas and Fort Worth, 30-mile-apart Texas rivals, may get together to try to make it rain.

City managers and water officials of the two cities conferred yesterday on whether they should jointly hire Dr. Irving P. Krick of Denver, who does a big business in rain-increasing.

They agreed they should, if their City Councils approve.

Dallas signed a six-month contract last November with Krick's Water Resources Development Corp. While cloud-seeding was under way the city's lake picked up 80,000 acre feet of water. Fort Worth's main lake lost 7,700 acre feet.

Solaqua Garden Club Holds Sesquicentennial Meeting

Junior Club Gives Displays

Antiques traced back to the sixteenth century were on display at the Solaqua Garden Club's sesquicentennial meeting. The parish house of the Robtown Evangelical United Brethren church was decorated with a patriotic color scheme and members attended the meeting in colonial dress.

Mrs. Cecil Ward, Mrs. Charles Huston and Mrs. Boyd Hines served as hostesses for the evening.

Mrs. Ward gave the devotional reading and Judy Huston and Sally Hines, Commercial Point Junior Garden Club members who were guests at the meeting, offered prayer.

Mrs. Ruth Perrill won the prize for the best-dressed lady of the early colonial period. Members of the Junior Garden Club, under the leadership of Mrs. Orville Dountz, arranged a table setting including a centerpiece, a six-inch miniature, a coffee table arrangement, a corsage, an Oriental arrangement and a three-inch miniature.

Guests present were Mrs. Carmel Raser, Mrs. George Bochart, Miss Carolyn Bochart, Mrs. John Rush, Mrs. Burt Bowers and Mrs. Robert Thomas.

The August meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Walter Cummings with Mrs. Benjamin Vause and Mrs. Alfred Cook assisting.

ME Commission Elects Officers

Members of the commission on education of Williamsport Methodist church met Sunday to elect new officers and teachers for the coming year.

Dress-Jacket Combo Gains New Favor

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—The endlessly wearable dress-and-jacket costume in feather-weight companion tweeds gains new importance in the fall collection of Grabois, a house not included in the New York Dress Institute couture group organization, but nevertheless attracting wide attention among buyers and press.

Designed for the average figure and priced for the average budget, this group of dresses and costumes followed the slim line of the season, but eases the straight-and-narrow silhouette just enough for comfort. Typical of the easy-to-wear costumes shown is one consisting of chiffon-weight tweed dress in charcoal gray, with a coordinated jacket in light-weight nubby tweed. The jacket has a fitted line and a smooth look through the shoulders; the dress is slim, but the skirt allows ease for walking.

More extreme and definitely striking is a sheath dress embroidered all over in black sequins, trimmed with a white satin neckline bow.

Ben Zuckerman, also previewing his collection for the visiting press today, shows a distinguished collection of suits, coats and costumes featuring all variations of the jacket silhouette, from the short box variety to fitted, semi-fitted and belted tunic styles. He features both bulky flecked

World Today

By DON WHITEHEAD
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Three little injuns out in a canoe. . . One fell overboard and then there were two."

That's the way it went in the old jingle — and that's what happened in the Kremlin canoe.

The canoe just wasn't big enough for Malenkov, Molotov and Beria — so Beria went overboard with an assist from his old pals. They pinned on his shirt tail the label "bourgeois renegade."

"Bourgeois renegade" obviously is a dreadful sort of cuss word. It's the sort of thing that would cause men down in Texas to say: "Smile when you say that, Pard-nuh."

Beria may be undergoing right now the brainwash treatment his secret police undoubtedly used to get those abject public confessions of guilt for which Russian trials are famous.

If the script is followed, Beria will confess to being "an adventurer and agent of capitalist imperialism" and acknowledge the sin of plotting to seize power and return Russia to the ways of capitalism. Then it's very likely Beria will be shot.

That leaves the two little injuns — Malenkov and Molotov — staring at each other from opposite ends of the canoe. Each of them must be aware of the dark figure of death in the shadows around them. Each must know that one death isn't enough to insure power and safety for either.

In this evil atmosphere, the Soviets are going through an internal crisis at the same time that workers are daring open rebellion in East Germany.

There are reports of restlessness in other satellite countries.

Perhaps the greatest comfort the Western world can take from this situation lies in the knowledge that hope of freedom hasn't been crushed behind the Iron Curtain — and that Russia appears to be in no position at the present time for war.

There is little likelihood of Russia springing a surprise war against the Western world, at least until the fight for power is ended in the Kremlin and the satellites are brought under iron-fisted control. Neither appears imminent.

The armed strength of the Allies in Europe can't be measured solely by the number of divisions and guns and planes. Their strength also includes the hidden support that would come from the guerrilla activity, revolts and sabotage of people waiting for a chance to throw off the Soviet shackles.

In case of war, Russian supply lines always would be vulnerable. Food, ammunition and reinforcements would be moving through hostile country. The Russians must be well aware of this threat in any war in Europe. No army is safe with enemies behind it.

The fight for power in the Kremlin thus offers a measure of relief in the cold war. How long it will continue no one can say.

But the little injun jingle gives a clue on what the future may hold:

"Two little injuns foolin' with a gun. . . One shot the other, and then there was one."

SOVIET SOLDIERS keep a constant check of everyone entering East Berlin from the West after the ban was lifted against traffic through their sector. The border had been sealed and martial law imposed since the workers' revolt. Communist spokesmen blamed "trouble makers" from the Allied zones for the demonstrations, which were ruthlessly quelled by Russian tanks and soldiers. (International)

Ashville Miss Wins Free Trip

Miss Jean Lindsey, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Ray R. Lindsey of Ashville, was one of eight Ohio pupils who were grand prize winners in a Columbus newspaper contest.

She, with six other girls and a boy, will make a five-day tour of historic spots in Ohio beginning Aug. 10.

The prize winners will spend the first night in Cincinnati after visiting several historic places enroute; the following night will be spent in Marietta; the third night in Canton; and the fourth night in Sandusky. The trip will end in Columbus.

Akron Tightening Law On Parking

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — You can't beat traffic tickets here any longer by claiming someone else parked your car in an illegal zone.

Previously, to make a parking ticket stick, police had to prove the owner actually had been at the wheel. But City Council plugged the loophole yesterday by making the owner liable no matter who did the parking.

The new statute is expected to net the city an extra $100,000 in fines each year.

Naked Woman Betrays Convict

CLEVELAND (AP) — As so often happens, a woman betrayed Paul Smith, arrested for violating his parole from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

"I'm not your man," said Smith, 42, when U. S. deputy marshals went to his home yesterday with a warrant. But the deputies lifted Smith's right sleeve to uncover a tattoo of a naked woman, just as it was described in the arrest papers.

Lack Of Sodium Causes Sickness

It is the lack of sodium, not of chloride, which is responsible for sickness in cattle with salt deficiencies.

Salt is composed of sodium and chloride. Recent experiments were conducted to determine which chemical was more responsible for sickness in cases of salt deficiency.

The experiments showed cattle with salt deficiencies regained health when sodium was added to their diet, but the addition of chloride produced no results.

School Consolidation Battle Being Waged By Ohio Chiefs

COLUMBUS (AP)—School consolidations have wiped out 226 local school districts in Ohio in the last five years.

It has been a running battle much of the way. Persons who favor consolidations say they mean economy and better education. Persons who don't like consolidations say they are going too far, they work hardships and that they are being made illegally.

The state department of education—big backer of consolidation—says it is just beginning the struggle to convince many local districts of the need for fewer and larger schools.

Consolidation is by state education department definition a program of melting down two or more small high schools into a larger unit in order to cut costs for each pupil and give broader, better instruction.

The state department of education has been the moving force in the consolidation picture. It has been using a potent weapon—revocation of charters—in forcing consolidation in cases where schools continue to fall below standard requirements.

It is the use of this weapon that has brought the consolidation problem to the Ohio Supreme Court.

When a charter is revoked, the school district has two alternatives: 1. The district can send its students to another, accredited school on a tuition basis, or 2. The district can consolidate with another school having approved facilities. In many cases, consolidation also means construction of a new, larger high school with modern facilities.

The big heat is at the high school level, but elementary schools are affected because they stand to get any money saved in the operation of district high schools.

The court fights revolve around the manner in which the state department revokes charters rather than consolidation itself.

One case involves the Mill Creek School District in Williams County. The district told Common Pleas Court the state education department did not follow the administrative procedures act in revoking its charter. The state contends the administrative procedures act does not apply.

The state department, if forced to follow the act, would be required to go through a long process of legal notices, public hearings, and other formalities. It hopes to avoid this. It has appealed to the high court against rulings of the Williams County Common Pleas Court, and the Court of Appeals. These courts upheld motions of the district school board to revoke action of the state department.

Meanwhile consolidations are continuing, many without much opposition. In 50 recent cases, 27 districts chose to "consign" their pupils to approved schools rather than consolidate. Twenty-three chose to consolidate. In 33 other cases, consolidation took place without charters ever being in question.

At least three counties, Clark, Delaware and Hocking, have completed their consolidation programs. But in Hocking County the largest consolidation is held up by order of the common pleas court.

Opponents claim consolidation would mean many children would have to go greater distances to new schools. This is particularly important in rural areas. Farm work and weather conditions affect school attendance.

In most communities the schools have become the hub of social and civic activities and athletic events. People of these districts do not want to lose this "hub."

This feeling has been shared by some educators. Recently in yellow Springs at the 10th annual national conference of the small community, Dr. William M. Robinson, director of the rural life and education department of Western Michigan College of Education, urged "revaluation of school consolidation plans for rural areas."

"I am in favor of school consolidation, but I believe we should give serious thought to just how far it is wise to carry such action."

We must protect community life and the feeling of unity," he said. State educators agree in part. Some think the community high school is a great thing — if districts can afford it, which is seldom the case. Other school officials think the old high school, turned over to elementary use, can still be the "hub" of the community.

R. M. Eymann, assistant state superintendent of schools, says most parent-teacher association activity already is centered in the rural elementary schools rather than in high schools.

His department thinks good high school educational requirements call for a good science department, industrial arts, home economics, and vocational agriculture departments, all needing labs, shops and special facilities. To furnish these for 10 to 20 pupils is impossible. Per capita cost is too high.

In a recent study of the trend of consolidation in Ohio, Eymann reported good progress had been made in Adams County in the last five years, reducing the number of high schools from 20 to 8; Belmont from 23 to 16; Delaware from 11 to 5; Hamilton from 35 to 25; Hocking from 12 to 7; Jefferson from 19 to 14; Lawrence from 17 to 9; Lorain from 25 to 18; Medina from 18 to 13; Monroe from 20 to 12; Portage 23 to 15; Union 15 to 9; Vinton 14 to 7; Wayne 18 to 10.

Twenty-two counties have made no reduction in the number of districts since 1948. They are: Allen, Brown, Clinton, Crawford, Defiance, Fairfield, Fayette, Gallia, Greene, Marion, Meigs, Morgan, Ottawa, Perry, Pike, Ross, Sandusky, Seneca, Trumbull, Warren, Williams and Wyandot.

Forty-three other counties have not reduced the number of districts by more than three since 1948.

ARRESTED after Forest service "fire detectives" and Sheriff Lyle G. Sale amassed circumstantial evidence, unemployed Stanford P. Patton, 26-year-old volunteer firefighter, confesses that he set a California coast range forest fire which killed 15 men near Willows. He said he needed money for his wife and three children and started the fire because "I figured I could get a job fighting fire."

Two MARINES, S/Sgt. William E. Shuck, Jr., of Clearfield, Pa., and Pvt. Jack W. Kelso of Fresno, Calif., have been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously. Shuck received his for heroism during a daylight attack upon well entrenched Communist forces in Korea on July 3, 1952, while Kelso won the award for covering the escape of fellow Marines from a besieged bunker on Oct. 2, 1952.

Vandal Angered By 'Dumb Cop'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Here's what police officer W. H. Gabbard found when he left his home at nearby Highland Springs yesterday:

The tires, convertible top and upholstery of his car had been slashed. Hub caps had been removed and the radio aerial and rear-view mirror had been broken off. And, scratched deeply in one side of the car was the note: "Dumb cop."

Should U.N. Keep Troublemakers?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Should the United Nations retain troublemakers or limit membership to nations of the free world?

Asked that question at a luncheon yesterday, Henry Cabot Lodge, United States delegate to the U. N., replied: "It is curious to have the principal arsonist in the fire department. But I would rather have him in the fire department than out of it in the bushes where I can't see him."

Then he added: "I may change my mind about that matter in six months."

Flares Labeled Cause Of 'Saucer'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force announced today a powerful new flare for night air photography and said the device has been responsible for some of the reports of flying saucers in the past two years.

Police and field officials were besieged with phone calls reporting flying saucers or planes going down in flames" when the 10 million candlepower flare was first tested secretly in 1951 near Windsor Locks, Conn., the Air Force said in a statement.

A test near Detroit also brought numerous calls from excited observers the Air Force said.

Essentially the device is a giant magnesium flare, attached to the wing of a reconnaissance plane and controlled by the pilot.

TOKYO (AP)—The Navy today said the U. S. destroyer Blue bumped into two or three whales while en route to a Pacific island.

George Wagner of Memphis, Mo. said:

"When we got back to the spot where we hit the whale we found a large red stain in the ocean with two whales thrashing around. We must have hit a whole school of whales."

The destroyer was not damaged.

Bar Association In Dilemma Again

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Bar Association was in somewhat of a dilemma today.

It refuses to endorse three municipal judges seeking re-election and can't find suitable candidates to oppose them. Three years ago the same situation arose and the judges won anyway.

Gillman Cites 5 Reasons Why Split-T Is Great In Football

CINCINNATI (AP)—Baseball, golf and tennis are taking up most of the space on the sports pages these days, but it's still football time for Sid Gillman.

Gillman, head football coach at the University of Cincinnati, today discussed the "split T" offense, calling it the "greatest ground attack ever conceived."

"There is no defense that can do more than slow down the split T and none can stop it completely," he said.

There are five major reasons why the split T attack is so difficult to the defense, Gillman continued. Here's the way Sid listed them:

1—The split T offense is built around the quick opening in the line and there is no play in football that makes the ball carrier tougher to stop.

2—Split T utilizes the ingenious methods of changing plays at the line of scrimmage by use of the "rub-off system." Under this system the quarterback, after looking over the defense can change or rub off one play and direct another into a more vulnerable spot.

3—Every split T play is an option play. Regardless of the preconceived designation, the ball carrier is taught to pick open holes in the line according to the action of the defense.

4—The system of offensive line splits utilized in the split T formation puts tremendous pressure on the defense in that most of the defensive line is isolated and out of the play. This is similar to the old army game of spreading the enemy forces and then attacking at a point left sparsely guarded.

5 — Deception in the split T originates at the line of scrimmage. In other formations it originates three or four yards behind the line and then the ball must be brought to the line. That gives the defense more time to react.

Gillman said he believes there will be a marked trend toward the play under single platoon football. Since the split T offense uses minimum of plays, Gillman feels coaches will switch to that formation so they might devote more time to building defenses and other phases of the game.

The UC coach has two ways in mind to slow down the split T offense against his team this coming season. The first is to get as many players as possible close to the line of scrimmage and still have a defense deployed in such manner as to give some semblance of pass defense.

The second idea is that, since the quarterback in split T formations works close to the line, the defensive line must make penetration immediately to disturb the ball exchange and force fumbles and mistakes.

Joe Cronin recalling Dave (Boo) Ferriss in the midst of all the talk about the Giants' hot-shot rookie, Allan Worthington. Ferriss also pitched a shutout in his first big league start. "You know Ferriss could throw as hard with his left hand as his right," said Cronin. "Only he was a big bashful kid and he didn't want to show off. One day he was fooling around warming up and Bill Summers, the umpire was watching. Bill came over to me and said, 'Is that Ferriss? I didn't know he was a left-hander.' That's how natural he was throwing lefty." Where's Ferriss now? A pitcher-coach down in Louisville on a Red Sox farm.

All-Star Game Highlights Bring Back History Of Game

CINCINNATI (AP)—It happened at the All-Star Game.

Bill Veck, owner of the St. Louis Browns, sitting in a stay-up-date spot, telling the boys, "I'll bet Hornsby gets more money for not managing the Browns this year than he gets for managing Cincinnati." Willie is still paying off on his old contract to the Rajah.

Allie Reynolds making like a State Department attaché while explaining what happened when the players put their demands before American League owners.

Ted Williams' appearance in Marine uniform will revive memories for fans of his tremendous performances in the 1941 and 1946 Games. At Detroit in '41 he hit a homer off Claude Passeau with two on and two out in the last of the ninth for a 7-5 victory. At Fenway Park in '46 he hit two homers and a single and drove in five runs in a 12-0 rout.

that day. Now he's a manager of the Cincinnati farm at Burlington, Iowa, in the Three Eye League.

Sieverts, Reigel Pitch LBL Tie; Little Kiwanians Pound Jaycees

Walt Sieverts for Kiwanis and Jerry Reigel for the Jaycees, tangled in Ted Lewis Park Tuesday night in a sparkling mound battle that ended the Little Bigger League contest in a 1-1 tie.

Darkness halted the fray at the end of the sixth inning after the Kiwanians came from behind to even the figures in the fifth.

Meanwhile, in the Little League, Red Wilson's Jaycees cut loose with a hitting fiesta behind a new pitcher and romped over the little Kiwanians, 14 to 7. The game put the little loop in a double-knot. Elks and Rotary are tied for first, and Kiwanis and the Jaycees are tied below the leaders.

The edge in the sensational slinging duel between Sieverts and Reigel belonged to Sieverts, although the Ashville boy allowed only one hit—by Catcher John Lewis—while the Jaycees were touching Sieverts for three safeties. Sieverts fanned 15, allowed only one walk, and struck out the dangerous Gary Phifer to put out a flaming Jaycee rally in the final frame with the winning run on third.

RIEDEL, ONE of three new players recently signed by Bob Steele's outfit, struck out an even dozen and walked five. It so happened the only walk handed out by Sieverts went to his mound opponent, and led to the only Jaycee marker.

There was little to choose between the two clubs as they put on the tightest tussle seen in LBL action so far this season. Steele added still more strength to his outfit, on top of the three-player deal, by putting Phifer behind the plate to catch the new pitcher.

Phifer, top class hurler in his own right, demonstrated he-like Rotary's Ralph Jones—can work effectively at both ends of a battery. The change made Sines available for duty at third base where he appeared to fit in better with the Jaycee machine.

Cincinnati's All-Stars play Linden A. C. of Columbus at the park Wednesday at 8 p. m. in a Central Ohio LBL game. The Little Stars, representing the best of the Little League, open their season here Friday night. Their game follows a city league contest, the LBL Elks and Rotary being slated to play off an early-season tie.

In Tuesday night's LBL tug-of-war, both teams went scoreless through the first two innings. In the Jaycee half of the first, Cromley beat out an infield roller for the first hit after Larry Fullen was safe on an error. However, Sieverts had already fanned Reigel, and the threat ended when Lewis caught Fullen trying to steal and Phifer struck out.

THE JAYCEES tallied their lone run in the third. After Hairston and McClure had fanned, Reigel coaxed the only Jaycee walk. He went to second on a passed ball and to third on a wild pitch. That's where he was when Fullen's rap slipped through first base and the Jaycee pitcher came home. The third out came when Fullen was nabbed stealing, Lewis to Emerine.

In the fifth, Kiwanis tied the score with two down. Leist, in for Emerine, walked and made his way to third on a theft and wild pitch. Heeter and Weller were out on strikes, but McCain walked and Leist came in on a wild pitch a moment later. Garner fanned.

Both clubs turned on extra gas in the final sixth and both registered hits, but no runs. Lewis smashed a clean single out of Cromley's reach into right and Strawser was safe on Fullen's error. The runners moved to second and third. At this stage, Fullen's alert backing up kept a run from scoring and nearly caught Lewis off third when Phifer threw wild trying to catch the Kiwanis receiver. Kerr was called out on strikes and Lewis was out trying to steal home.

In the Jaycee half, Sines fanned but Reigel singled to left and made his way to second. Fullen rapped to Sieverts who threw to third and Reigel was called out at the hot corner. Fullen stole second, and men were on first and third after Cromley's high bouncer fooled Sieverts for a scratch infield hit.

It was nobody's game when Phifer went down on strikes.

ACROSS THE PARK in the Little League, the Jaycees piled up a fat margin behind their new twirler, Don Wellington, had the game won at the end of the fifth. The victors pushed five tallies across in the sixth for good measure.

Kiwanis rallied to overcome an early Jaycee lead and were out in front, 5 to 4, at the end of the third. Then Red Wilson's boys began an attack that Phifer and Bell both had trouble in checking.

Asa Elsea was a slugging demon for Jaycees, clouting a homer with the bases full, a triple and a double. Purcell also had a homer, and Don Wellington helped win his game with a triple while the sacks were loaded. Stewart hit a home run for Kiwanis.

One of the first twin killings of the little loop season was engineered for the Jaycees by Shortstop Bob Glick. With a man on second, he took a fast grounder, tagged the passing runner and then threw to first for the double play.

Starting batting order of the LBL game:

Jaycees — Reigel, p; Fullen, ss; Cromley, 1b; Phifer, c; Davis, lf; Camp, 2b; Kelly, cf; Hairston, rf; Sines, 3b. Gentzel replaced Hairston.

Kiwanis — Wilkinson, rf; Garner, cf; Lewis, c; Strawser, ss; Sieverts, p; Johnson, 1b; Emerine, 3b; McClure, 2b; Weller, lf; McCain went in for Wilkinson, Kerr for Johnson, Leist for Emerine, Heeter for McClure, and Wolford for Weller.

Starting batting order of the Little League game:

Jaycees — J. Wellington, 2b; Purcell, 1b; Strawser, c; Elsea, 3b; Robinson, cf; Gulick, ss; Ward, rf; D. Wellington, p; Wilson, lf.

Kiwanis — Jones, 2b; Phifer, p; Schneider, c; Bell, ss; Stewart, 1b; Gerhardt, 3b; Morrison, lf; Kirkpatrick, cf; Hannahs, rf.

must have been a great disappointment to the Kremlin.

Japan is another story. The Japanese are hungry for Asiatic trade. They want to trade with Manchuria and China. They want to do business in Harbin, Mukden, Dairen, Shanghai, Hankow, Tientsin, Canton.

These places are all held by the Chinese Communists. They would also like to trade in Southeast Asia, from Hongkong to Colombo, but the British want that trade for themselves.

This issue is going to come to a head sooner than we like and again the United States will be in the middle between British policy and our support of some Asiatic country. The Eisenhower Administration has never yet been able to meet such a situation head on.

It seems a "middle-of-the-road" answer, something that will please everybody and make a gay world. There are no such answers, with the result that all sides become violently angry with us.

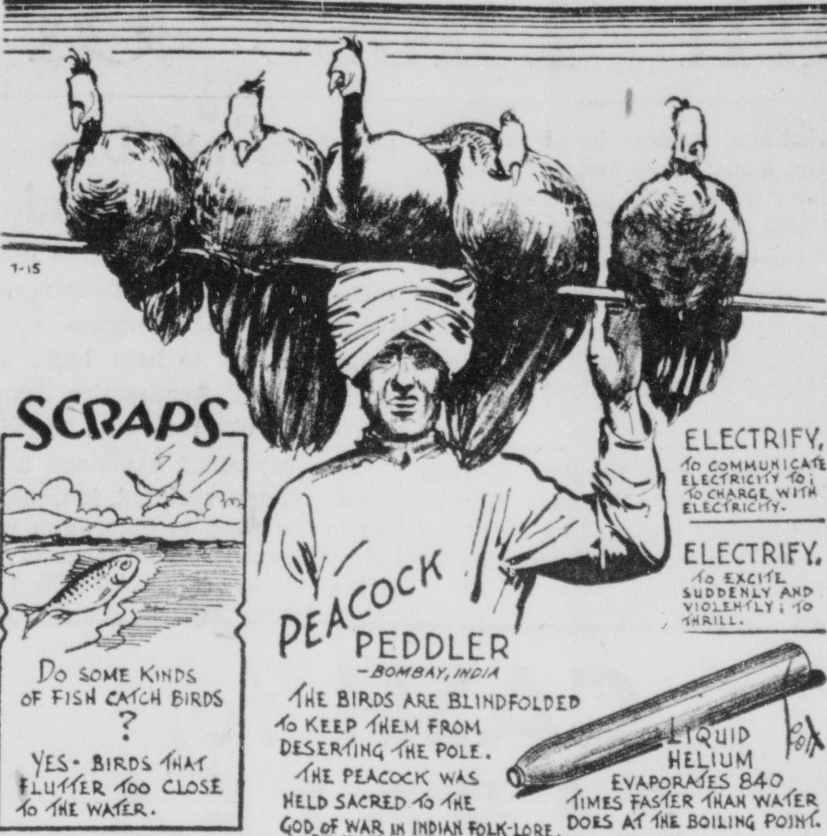

Then, the Russians step in with some tricky solution like the Indian trade scheme for Korea.

All this is part of the inner fight in the Kremlin. Each side, the Malenkov side and the Molotov side, needs a big success to knock off the adversary. And there is some hope that the United States might make the false step that will provide the means to that success.

So, they guess on, even as we do.

Reed Registers Second No-Hit, No-Run Win For Top Hat Crew

Kenneth Reed twirled his second no-hit, no-run victory of the season Tuesday night in a league softball game in Washington C. H.

Reed tossed the Circleville Top Hat crew into a five-inning, 10-0 victory over Washington C. H. softballers. The game was called in the fifth because of the lopsided score.

The no-hitter Tuesday night gave the Hatters a record of three no-hitters to date for the season. Reed has hurled two of them in Washington C. H., and Stillman Morrison pitched a no-hitter in Bremen.

In Tuesday's test, Lloyd Minor provided the top scoring punch for the Hat crew, blasting out a bases-loaded homer in right field during the second inning. Reed connected for a three-bagger during the evening.

ONLY TWO of the 17 batsmen facing Reed managed to reach first base, accomplished on a Hatter infield error. Reed fanned 11 batsmen and walked one.

Top Hat is unbeaten to date in Washington C. H. league play. However, the Hat crew suffered a 1-0 setback Monday night in an exhibition test in Greenfield, losing by an unearned run in the final frame of the game.

The local softballers will play at London Friday night and will meet Sabina in Washington C. H. next Wednesday. Line score of Tuesday's no-hitter follows:

Moore's Claim 14-4 Victory

Moore's store softballers blasted out a 14-4 victory Tuesday night in Ted Lewis Park over Eshelman's in a city industrial softball league tilt.

Home runs by Mearns and Leasure were highlights of the high-scoring encounter, with Mearns, Payne and Whaley collecting three-baggers also for the Moore's aggregation.

Eshelman's collected its four counters on two safeties and two Moore's errors. The Eshelman hits were rapped out by Redman and Courtney.

Line score of the game follows:
Moore's 011 145 2 — 14 19 2
Eshelman's 020 001 1 — 4 2 4

Korea Battle Deaths One-Tenth Those Of World War II

32,000 Men Believed Dead In Conflict

Marine Corps Death Rate Is Highest; Army Is Next

Battle deaths among United States forces in Korea have been little more than one tenth the number killed in World War II.

More than 24,000 battle deaths among U. S. armed forces have been officially reported to next of kin during the three years of hostilities.

Allowing the deaths among men still listed as missing, the statisticians estimate that the United States battle death toll in Korea is about 32,000. In comparison, well over 50,000 battle deaths occurred in the Army land forces alone in the Pacific area during World War II.

The battle death rate in Korea, based upon the estimated total death toll of 32,000, averaged 3.5 men a year for each 1,000 men under arms from June 1950 to June 1953. During World War II, the average was 8.9 per 1,000 a year.

HEAVIEST LOSSES in Korea were suffered in the early months of the conflict. For the second half of 1950, the battle death rate for all Americans in the armed forces, based on notifications of next of kin, was 7.9 per 1,000 a year. The rate dropped to 3.2 in 1951 and to 1.3 in 1952. It was 1.1 up to June 12 of this year.

As in World War II, the Marine Corps has suffered relatively heavier losses in Korea than any other branch of service. The Marine Corps battle death rate in Korea averaged 7.1 per 1,000 a year, allowing for the probable dead among those listed as missing.

The corresponding average for the Army was 6.3; for the Air Force, 9.5; and for the Navy, 0.2. The World War II rates were 14.3 for the Marine Corps, 9.4 for the Army (which then included the Air Force), and 4.2 for the Navy.

Navy and Marine Corps reports show the death rate from disease was actually lower for the Korean War period than for the peacetime years 1946 to 1949, statisticians point out.

The very low death rate from

Food And Water Should Be Close For Top Results

Here is some advice offered by hog men at the South Dakota Experiment Station: "Don't make those Shoats you're fattening walk too far to feed or water. If you do, you'll be lucky if it doesn't cost you money."

Workers at the South Dakota station last Summer spaced feeders and waterers at various distances. The further apart they were, the slower the gains.

That was because the pigs drank less water and ate less feed as the disease among the armed forces in Korea indicates how effective the military medical services have been despite the handicap of singularly difficult conditions. Poor, often primitive environmental sanitation, the high prevalence of infectious diseases and extremes of temperature created many serious health problems which have been satisfactorily met.

Losses resulting from exposure to cold have been reduced by instructing officers and enlisted men in preventive measures, by better clothing and equipment and by improved techniques in the management of cases.

Protective and sanitary measures have reduced the toll from the epidemic diseases, not only among military personnel but also among the civilian population of Korea. Altogether, the advances made through experience and research in safeguarding the health and life of the armed forces during the Korean War add a new chapter to the history of military medicine.

distance they had to walk was increased.

Four groups of 20 pigs each were used in the test. Where the distance was 20 feet, the pigs ate 5.71 pounds of feed a day, drank 1.23 gallons of water apiece and made daily gains of 1.60 pounds.

ONE LOT HAD to walk 560 feet between waterer and feeder. They drank 12 per cent less water, ate nearly 11 per cent less feed and made 10 per cent slower gains. That is something to remember if you plan to hog-down corn this fall.

Hog prices usually decline in the Fall. Suppose your pigs weigh 50 pounds when you take them to pasture, and you want to sell them at 225 pounds? They must gain 175 pounds.

At the rate the South Dakota pigs grew, that would require 110 days when feeders and waterers are 20 feet apart; 121 days when they're 560 feet apart. That extra 11 days can make a lot of difference in the price.

Watch prices this Fall when you sell your first bunch of pigs. Compare that price with the quotation 11 days later. Nine times out of ten, you'll lose money in the later market.

Fire Routs Ladies In Turkish Bath

BOSTON (AP)—Ladies' day at a Turkish bath in the West End turned out to be an embarrassing day for five ladies.

The five were forced to the street Monday by a fire which spread into the baths. The ladies had only enough time to grab sheets.

Vacation Drivers Urged To Follow All Traffic Rules

State Highway Patrolman Bob Greene of Circleville reminds vacation motorists their safety depends on observing traffic rules and regulations whenever they drive.

"You can't take a vacation from the traffic laws," Greene warned.

"It doesn't matter whether you're driving right here in Ohio or 1,000 miles from here," Greene said. "You'll get into trouble unless you drive within the law."

Many people, he said, have an idea that they're not responsible if they don't know the law. They think a plea of ignorance will excuse a traffic violation they commit when traveling outside their home state.

"THEY'RE DEAD wrong," Greene said. "Ignorance of the law excuses no one. A tourist is expected to know the traffic laws of the states through which he travels."

"Ordinarily, that's not difficult to do. For instance, it's a simple matter to observe all road signs and to watch for and heed local speed limit postings."

As for less obvious regulations, the tourist should acquaint himself with them before starting his trip, if possible. He can either consult his local officials or automobile associations before he leaves his home state, or he can ask a police officer or highway patrolman when he gets into another state.

Greene's suggestions were issued in cooperation with the July "vacation driving" program being conducted by the State Highway Patrol and the National Safety Council.

Portsmouth Due For Airport Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—Portsmouth, Ohio, will be given serious consideration if Congress appropriates money to help build airports, a Civil Aeronautics Administration spokesman said Tuesday.

The spokesman explained if the money is appropriated, it would be up to the CAA to determine what airport gets it. In its original recommendation, the CAA asked for $30 million for airports of the nation, with $110,000 earmarked for an airport near Portsmouth to serve the huge atomic plant going up there.

Usually regarded as an industrial state, Connecticut is the second highest state in the nation in the value per acre of its farm products—$112.

Ohio Assembly Runs Out Of Steam, Quits

5 Key Issues Covered By Solons During 100 Legislative Days

COLUMBUS (AP)—The 100th Ohio General Assembly ran out of steam yesterday shortly before midnight and called it quits.

The House broke off its deliberations at 10:30, 90 minutes before its own deadline. The Senate forged ahead another 44 minutes and then bowed out.

Both Houses will meet in skeleton session Saturday for the signing of last-minute bills. Actual final adjournment will come Friday, July 31, in a session which will clean up last minute details and consider any votes handed down by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The Assembly in 100 working days came to grips with five key issues: A record state budget, highways, welfare problems, school financing and code revision.

The record of the Republican-dominated Legislature:

IT ADOPTED a state budget for the next two years of $836 million, more than 10 per cent above the 1951-53 biennium.

It worked out a multi-million dollar highway financing program including an axle-tax on trucks, a penny-a-gallon gasoline tax increase and a proposal to be submitted to the voters for a $500 million bond issue to speed a road construction program. It also split the highway department by creating a new Department of Highway Safety.

It voted nearly $22 million for welfare institutions and split the sprawling welfare department by creating a new Department of Mental Hygiene.

It approved a record $236½ million for schools, $231 million in a direct subsidy to school districts.

High Court OKs District Tax Holdout

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today refused to require Delaware and Union County auditors to levy a .3 mill Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District tax on property in their counties.

The decision affects all 17 counties in the district. The counties are Fayette, Pickaway, Crawford, Delaware, Franklin, Highland, Madison, Marion, Morrow, Pike, Ross, Sandusky, Scioto, Seneca, Union, Vinton and Wyandot.

The district made a preliminary .3 mill levy in 1947 and another last year. Prosecutor Clyde E. Lewis of Delaware County challenged the second levy in an action brought directly in the Supreme Court.

The court said a tax within the stead of an assessment, and refused to require proceedings for collection pending determination of whether the tax fell inside or outside the state constitutional 10-mill limit on property taxes.

The court said a tax within the 10-mill limit should be submitted to a county budget commission for approval. If outside, voters should have a chance to approve or reject the tax. Neither course was followed by the district.

On that ground, the court denied the district's request for Delaware and Union county auditors to place the tax on their tax lists and duplicate.

In a related action, the court refused a request by taxpayer Wilbur J. Nance to order the .3 mill tax levied on "all public real property" in Franklin County. The court said such property was exempt.

Jabara Collects His 15th MIG Kill

SEOUL (AP)—Maj. James Jabara, America's first jet ace, bagged his 15th Communist MIG today to become the world's second-ranking jet ace.

Jabara was on the 96th combat mission of his second Korean tour. The victory also made him the second triple jet ace in history.

Today's victory puts Jabara within one MIG of the all-time record held by Capt. Joseph McConnell of Apple Valley, Calif., who bagged 16. Jabara downed six MIGs on his first Korean combat tour.

Train Derailed

NEW CONCORD (AP)—A west-bound Baltimore and Ohio freight train derailed here last night, upsetting and demolishing 24 of the train's middle cars. No one was injured. A broken wheel probably caused the wreck to the 60-car train.

RESCUED AFTER being trapped 40 hours in the pit of a Newark, N. J., firm's elevator shaft, Anthony Di Palma of Nutley, N. J., shows patrolman Frank Hughes friction burns he incurred on his hands in futile attempts to free himself.

Filter Center Urges Circleville Resume Air Watch 'Immediately'

Officers in charge of the Filter Center in Columbus Wednesday asked that something be done "immediately" in Circleville to establish a 24-hour air watch for hostile aircraft.

Bernard Tait, civil defense director for Pickaway County, said the request was received by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff last Monday. Radcliff is in charge of the Circleville branch of the Ground Observer Corps, the unit normally assigned to any air watch duty.

Radcliff last year waged a long battle to have an observation post manned on a 24-hour basis at El-sea Airport, north of the city. However, volunteers for the job gradually dwindled and the post finally was abandoned.

Tait said prospects for reviving the post are going to be "rough" in view of the reaction to Rad-

Senate Opens Debate On Tax Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House-passed bill to extend the excess profits tax for six months, a major item in President Eisenhower's 1953 legislative program, comes up for Senate debate today.

Leaders in both parties were supporting the bill and confident of passage.

There was a chance it would be passed and on the way to Eisenhower's desk by tonight, giving him a triumph in the fight that so far has raised the thorniest problems faced by his administration on Capitol Hill.

Nearly all of the trouble came in the House, where naughty Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.), a bitter foe of the excess profits levy, kept the extension measure stalled in his Ways and Means Committee for many weeks.

In contrast, the Senate has acted with great speed. The House passed the bill last Friday; Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) called his Finance Committee together yesterday and the measure was approved at that session, with no hearings.

Millikin's strategy aimed at steering the measure through without any change in the House version. This would avoid a conference with the House at which Reed would be the top negotiator for that branch.

In this, he had firm backing from veteran Sen. George (D-Ga.), the senior Democrat on the group.

Both senators obtained pledges from a number of colleagues not to offer pet amendments.

Plane Inventor's Tax Case Studied

CLEVELAND (AP)—U. S. Tax Court Judge Marion J. Harrah has taken under advisement the government's $126,000 income tax claim against C. Gilbert Taylor, Alliance plane inventor.

Taylor's son, Lt. Robert H. Taylor, 31, and his daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Sharp, testified in their father's behalf Tuesday.

The inventor claims it was a strictly business arrangement when he took the two into his plane parts business as partners back in 1943. The government insists Taylor merely used the arrangement to split his income among his family.

Chinese Open New Attacks On Warfront

Uneasy Lull Broken By Savage Thrusts Riding Two Prongs

SEOUL (AP)—The Chinese tonight renewed savage attacks on the East-Central Korean front with a two-prong, 3,000-man assault south of Kumsong.

The attack broke a day-long lull in the biggest Red offensive in more than two years. The new assault, backed by tanks, was believed aimed at a main Allied highway.

It was preceded by Chinese probing assaults in the sector that began at dusk.

A combination of stubborn South Korean resistance, driving rain, and a blistering curtain of Allied artillery fire had temporarily stalled the massive Red offensive along a 20-mile front.

But an uneasy lull hung over the bloodied Kumsong bulge where more than 80,000 Reds ripped into Allied lines.

AS STURDY ROK troops braced themselves against attack in the approaching darkness, Allied light planes reported sighting numerous company and battalion-size build-ups. Some of the sightings were made in the Kumsong River area, where the ROKs withdrew Tuesday to the South bank under orders from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, head of the 8th Army.

Earlier today, he flew to the front for the second straight day and said the line had been stalled.

Several small attacks by Red companies about 150 men each were reported late Wednesday afternoon east of Kumsong in the embattled sector.

Heavier than usual military censorship in Seoul and Tokyo covered news reports describing the depth of the Red penetration.

The sharp lull was unusual in a Chinese offensive. It remained to be seen whether it was a temporary

Ike Emissary Sees Truce If Reds Sincere

SEATTLE (AP)—Walter H. Robertson, President Eisenhower's emissary to South Korea, said last night the agreement he reached with President Syngman Rhee should bring an armistice if the Communists are sincere.

Robertson, an assistant secretary of state, brushed aside charges made by the Communist Peiping radio that his talks with Rhee had placed a time bomb in the way of an armistice.

"There were no agreements between the Republic of Korea and the United States governments which in any way would interfere with an immediate implementation of the truce," Robertson declared. "We could sign a truce tomorrow in good faith with the Communists."

The Rhee agreements require that a political conference be called within 90 days after a truce is signed. The conference would be aimed towards peaceful settlement of the Korean War.

At the end of another 90 days after the conference is called, the situation is to be reappraised. If it should develop that the Communists had used the talks to stall and infiltrate South Korea with subversives, the United States and South Korea agree to walk out of the conference together and determine what to do next.

"Our objectives are the same as those of South Korea," Robertson declared. "We want a unified Korea as much as they do."

Ship Owner Asks For Exoneration

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Kinsman Transit Co. wants federal court to exonerate it from liability in the sinking of its ore carrier Henry Streinbrener with a loss of 17 lives.

The company contends that a storm of "hurricane force" struck the vessel in Lake Superior last May 11, causing heavy seas to carry away three hatch covers and allow water into the holds. It was the storm, rather than any fault of the crew or the owners that caused the sinking, the petition said.

Title Bout Set

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano today signed to defend his title against Roland La Starza of New York at the Polo Grounds, New York, on Sept. 24.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two proposed investigations by the controversial Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) have run into dead-end streets.

One, in which McCarthy threatened to haul up Former President Truman, was scotched when the FBI assured the senator that Truman did not withhold any information he received from Canada about an atomic spy plot.

In the other, the senate's all-Republican probe panel was in a quandary on whether to call intelligence official William P. Bundy for questioning.

A little more than two weeks ago, while Truman was on his first trip East since leaving the White House, McCarthy said there had been "constant reports" that the ex-President had not turned over to the FBI a list of some 150 So-

Showdown Due Tonight Between Allies, Reds On Armistice Issue

Big 3 Hurl New Challenge At Soviet On German Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States, Britain and France posed an immediate challenge to Russia today to join in a four-power foreign ministers meeting aimed at reunifying East and West Germany.

The call for a session next autumn on Germany, and on completing an Austria independence treaty, was agreed upon by American, British and French foreign ministers in a five-day conference which ended with issuance of a communique last night.

Notes from all three Western governments were prepared for dispatch to Moscow within 24 hours.

The foreign ministers also issued a warning to the Reds in Asia that, if they break an armistice with a new attack on South Korea, the United States, Britain and France will again go to war.

The proposal on Germany represents initiative by the West to put squarely on the Kremlin—in the face of its internal Beria purge and in the light of anti-Communist unrest in East Germany—a challenge to do something definite about one of the world's worst sources of tension.

Secretary of State Dulles, Acting British Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault also called for restoration of "true liberty" to the Soviet satellite peoples of Eastern Europe.

They announced that if those countries achieve freedom the door to unity with the community now being created in Western Europe is open to them.

On Far Eastern problems, the three ministers announced that economic embargoes against Communist China would be continued indefinitely after an armistice and that the policy of barring Red China from the United Nations congressmen from Ohio caucus today in an effort to find out why Democratic appointees still are running an important farm program in their state.

Stevenson Quips French Setup

PARIS (AP)—Adlai Stevenson arrived in Paris today and quipped that he would have come here sooner but was afraid French President Auriol would ask him to form a government.

Stevenson, who lost his bid to form a U. S. government in the 1952 presidential election, was referring to France's recent 37-day cabinet crisis.

Winding up his world tour, Stevenson will stay in France until July 22. He leaves England July 23 for the United States to make a report on his trip to President Eisenhower.

Proposed McCarthy Investigations Of Truman Chilled By FBI Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two proposed investigations by the controversial Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) have run into dead-end streets.

One, in which McCarthy threatened to haul up Former President Truman, was scotched when the FBI assured the senator that Truman did not withhold any information he received from Canada about an atomic spy plot.

In the other, the senate's all-Republican probe panel was in a quandary on whether to call intelligence official William P. Bundy for questioning.

A little more than two weeks ago, while Truman was on his first trip East since leaving the White House, McCarthy said there had been "constant reports" that the ex-President had not turned over to the FBI a list of some 150 Soviets spy suspects received from Canadian authorities.

McCarthy fired off a letter to Atty. Gen. Brownell asking whether the Justice Department and the FBI ever got such a list from Truman. He called this a first step toward deciding whether to ask the investigations subcommittee to call Truman as a witness.

In New York at the time, Truman told newsmen he had no comment because "what I could tell you, you wouldn't print."

In answer to reporters' questions today, McCarthy said, "I've gotten assurances from the FBI that Truman did not withhold any information which he got from any Canadian source, including MacKenzie King, in regard to espionage."

A conference with Allen Dulles, director of the supersecret Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) where Bundy is employed, resulted in at least temporary postponement of McCarthy's plans to question him.

McCarthy accused Bundy last week of blocking the subcommittee's efforts to bring Bundy before it for questioning. He called it "a blatant attempt to flout the authority of a congressional committee."

McCarthy told the Senate Bundy had contributed $400 to the defense fund of Alger Hiss, former State Department employee convicted of lying under oath when he denied he had slipped secret papers to a pre-war Soviet spy ring.

After subcommittee members conferred behind closed doors with Dulles yesterday afternoon, Mc-

Carthy said Bundy "may still be called" but that a decision had been deferred pending attempts to work out arrangements for questioning witnesses without impairing security.

A statement issued by McCarthy, and approved by Dulles, also said the subcommittee will turn over to the CIA all information it has about Bundy and "immediately thereafter the agency will re-evaluate Mr. Bundy's security status under President Eisenhower's new security order."

CIA officials said Dulles took a firm stand against permitting Bundy to testify because of the sensitive nature of the intelligence agency. They said there is no present plan to subpoena Bundy, but that if he should be summoned he would be advised not to appear.

Britain and France joined with the United States in pledging to work for peaceful unification of Korea.

The three warned Red China against using prospective peace in Korea for new aggressions elsewhere in Asia. They said also they had considered measures for winning the war against communism in Indochina.

If Russia accepts the bid for a foreign ministers meeting on Germany and if this meeting results in steps toward German unity, U. S. officials said it could lead to a Big Four conference at the Eisenhower-Malenkov level.

Pending the proposed autumn session, however, there reportedly is no plan for a conference with the Kremlin at the top level.

Informants reported that the foreign ministers had removed many of the problems which would have come up at the postponed session of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel at Bermuda. The understanding therefore was that though this meeting could still be held, there is no longer an urgent need and no plans were worked out for bringing it about.

On Far Eastern problems, the three ministers announced that economic embargoes against Communist China would be continued indefinitely after an armistice and that the policy of barring Red China from the United Nations

Even as he died, a controversy raged over whether the mild-appearing transport worker and wartime auxiliary cop was guilty of a baby's murder for which another man was hanged in 1950.

The case of the insanity-pleading wholesaler in killing, who walked up his victims' bodies in his apartment or buried them in his garden, had shocked Britain as no other murder spree since Jack the Ripper.

The continuing controversy hinged on Christie's confession at his trial that he strangled a neighbor's wife three years ago. The neighbor, Timothy Evans, was accused of killing both his wife and baby daughter but was convicted and hanged only for the infant's death.

CHRISTIE'S confession aroused speculation that Christie also killed the baby, though he denied this.

Evans' mother and two sisters remained unconvinced and wrote Queen Elizabeth II last night, asking a public investigation. Seventeen Laborite members of Parliament also presented an 11th-hour motion demanding Christie's execution be stayed so he could testify at such an investigation.

The death sentence was carried out on schedule, however. Christie was sentenced June 25 after a five-day trial.

He had testified that his ghastly kills (most of them street-walkers throttled or suffocated in the throes of illicit love) might have totaled more than seven women but he wasn't sure.

He was tried, however, only for the murder of his wife Ethel, 54, whose decaying body was found beneath the parlor floor in their dingy Notting Hill apartment.

During the trial, a psychiatrist testified Christie went berserk because he was "fascinated by dead bodies." His own lawyer said the killer was "mad as a March Hare."

He testified he strangled his wife with a stocking to put her out of her agony during a convulsion. He claimed he kept the body under the parlor floor because he couldn't bear to be separated from her.

The Barrett added that there was "no possibility of finding survivors alive."

The Barrett was taking the 14 bodies—nine women, three men and two children—to Guam. It is scheduled to arrive there Friday.

The Barrett said none of the victims had on life belts and that all but two were nude. The ship added there was no evidence among the victims or the debris that the passengers had been prepared for an emergency landing.

'Distinct Possibility' Of Breakdown Seen In New Negotiations

PANMUNJOM (AP)—An authoritative source says a showdown is coming between Allied and Communist truce negotiators tonight in a secret session which will "make or break the talks."

"There is a very distinct possibility of another breakdown in the talks," the source said. He added that the veil of secrecy will be lifted from the negotiations if there is a breakdown.

There were strong indications the showdown would come over Red demands for the recapture of non-Communist Korean prisoners freed last month and ironclad guarantees from the U. N. that South Korea would honor a truce.

The source said the next negotiating session "will be the showdown. The meeting will make or break the talks."

The source, who could not be identified, gave his estimate of the truce situation after the Chinese Communist radio claimed that U.N. Command negotiators "walked out" of Wednesday's truce meeting.

BUT PEIPING radio made it clear there would be another meeting tonight at 9 p. m. EST.

The Peiping radio said: "The other side unilaterally declared a recess and walked out of the meetings."

A U. N. Command spokesman said: "No comment. We never comment on Communist propaganda broadcasts."

The negotiators met for 21 minutes Wednesday and the Allied delegation announced afterward that another session would be held.

Allied officers here were openly pessimistic over changes of an early armistice, but elsewhere there was continued optimism.

Search Ends For Victims Of Air Crash

HONOLULU (AP)—The Hawaiian Sea Frontier has called off the air-sea search for victims of the Transocean Air Lines passenger plane crash Saturday 350 miles east of Wake Island in which 38 persons perished.

Fourteen mutilated bodies were recovered from shark-infested waters before the search halted at 4 p. m. yesterday.

The Navy said the Standard Oil tanker Lombardi sighted two more bodies but was unable to recover them.

The Navy transport Barrett, which first came upon the plane wreckage, radioed that the plane crash apparently was caused by an explosion.

The Barrett added that there was "no possibility of finding survivors alive."

The Barrett was taking the 14 bodies—nine women, three men and two children—to Guam. It is scheduled to arrive there Friday.

The Barrett said none of the victims had on life belts and that all but two were nude. The ship added there was no evidence among the victims or the debris that the passengers had been prepared for an emergency landing.

timism that negotiators would agree soon.

Allied officers in direct contact with the negotiations said the Reds have taken a tougher position and are insisting that the U. S. Command provide concrete guarantees that South Korea will observe an armistice.

These same officers, who refused to be quoted by name, said the big Communist attack on the East-Central Front indicates the Reds do not plan to sign a truce soon.

The Communist radio at the North Korean Capital of Pyongyang said last night that 90 per cent of the 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners freed from Allied camps last month now are in Pohang, north of Pusan on the east coast.

THE RED RADIO attributed its information to a special correspondent in Panmunjom.

The broadcast said that since the prisoners now are concentrated in one place, the Allied claim that they have melted into the civilian population and cannot be recaptured does not hold water.

The Reds have insisted on the recovery of these prisoners since the first big group fled from U. N. stockades on orders of President Rhee June 18.

Allied spokesmen declined to comment on the Red broadcast.

A South Korean Defense Ministry official said some of the released prisoners are in the Pohang area, but he denied emphatically that 90 per cent are there.

Williamsport Driver Held In Jail Here

A Williamsport man was in Pickaway County Jail Wednesday after failing to pay a fine in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root.

William L. Barnhart, 32, of Williamsport was committed to jail after being fined $15 and costs for driving without a license. He was arrested by Deputy Carl White in Deer Creek Township last Monday.

John W. Thacker, 25, of Chillicothe paid a fine of $10 and costs for driving with fictitious tags and $25 and costs for reckless operation of a motor vehicle.

Thacker was arrested by Deputy White on Route 23 south of Circleville.

False Alarm Listed

Circleville fire department responded at 4:05 a. m. Wednesday to a call from Winorr Canning Co. Firemen said the cannery's automatic sprinkler system had registered a false alarm.

The bread cereal jumped nearly 4 cents in some contracts at the opening, but this extreme advance could not be maintained. Wheat fell back to where it had gains of about 2 to 3 cents, which it maintained throughout the morning.

Wheat near noon was 24-2 1/2 higher, July $1.94 1/4, corn 1 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, July $1.31 1/4, oats 1/4 higher, July 75 1/2, soybeans 1 1/4-1/2 higher, July $2.68 1/2, and lard 10 to 28 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $10.50.

Sport Car Races Due On Aug. 9 At Lockbourne

What is a sports car? What will spectators see at the Ohio Sesqui-centennial National Sports Car Races at Lockbourne Air Force Base on Aug. 9th? What are these cars that whiz around the track at speeds exceeding 150 miles an hour?

The French have 50,000 words to describe a sports car. The Federation d'Automobile of Paris, the great-grandfather organization which controls all international racing, wrote an entire book on the subject.

But for Americans, a better definition might be, "A little bucket of bolts with a few hundred horsepower." In everyday jargon that just about explains a sports car. It accelerates like a rocket, handles like a dream and costs like everything!

Most sports cars are built in foreign countries. However, due to mounting interest in the sport in this country, there are some models being turned out here.

SPORTS CARS are not built entirely for racing. In fact, they are used for everyday driving as well as all-out competition. It's handling characteristics have to be experienced to be believed.

Imagine blasting into a sharp curve at 100 miles an hour with perfect safety. A standard-make automobile would upset on the same corner at 60. By shifting into an acceleration gear, a driver can pass three trailer trucks on the highway in less time than it takes your family car to pass one.

Despite the fact that it weighs only half as much and has twice the horsepower of a standard American car, the sports job holds the road far better, and can be controlled perfectly at any speed even on a rough road.

The races at Lockbourne Air Force Base on Aug. 9th are being sponsored to raise money for the airman's living improvement fund at the base.

Nation Getting Pleasant Weather

CHICAGO (U-P) — A pleasant summer day was the outlook for most of the country today, although it was hotter than normal in the Rocky Mountain region.

Rain and thundershowers hit the Rockies during the night but temperatures continued above seasonal levels. Light rain fell along the New England coast. Heavy fog was reported early today in sections of the Great Lakes area. Thunderstorms hit Key West, Fla., yesterday, with rainfall measuring nearly two inches in six hours.

tricts and $5 1/2 million for schools buses and school rehabilitation. This was another increase of more than 10 per cent.

It adopted, after a seven-week study at the session's start, a totally revised code of Ohio laws.

It killed, or failed to pass, such legislation as:

Fair employment practices.

Legal bingo.

A total repealer of movie censorship in Ohio, although it later exempted newsreels from the censor's scrutiny.

Legal greyhound dog racing.

Here, spelled out briefly, are the high points of the major legislative programs:

HIGHWAYS—

An axle-mile tax on big trucks with three or more axles to collect a levy of one-half to 2 1/2 cents a mile.

A penny-a-gallon motor fuel tax, increasing the state's levy to five cents a gallon.

Combined yield of the two taxes, estimated at $43 million a year, will be spent by a new highway construction council on main intercity highways.

The $500 million bond issue for a speeded-up road building program will be on the ballot in November for a final decision by the voters. The alternative: A pay-as-you-go road building program.

The new Department of Highway Safety will combine the present state highway patrol, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and the bureau administering the state motorists' financial responsibility law.

WELFARE—

The welfare department split is designed to place in the new Department of Mental Hygiene all mental and penal institutions and leave with the present department all public assistance programs.

Early in the session an emergency $8 million appropriation went to the state's penal institutions. Later, another $13 million were appropriated for construction and repair of mental institutions.

SCHOOLS—

The Legislature upped the state school subsidy to a record $231 million with most of the increase going to needy school districts. In a last-minute compromise, big-city school districts got some additional money. The subsidy for the last two years was $208 million, but because of increased school enrollments would have reached $215 million without change in the old law.

The Legislature devoted the first two months of work to simplifying and streamlining Ohio's laws. The Bureau of Code Revision worked six years to group related laws and eliminate deadwood.

It will become effective Oct. 2. The code last was revised in 1910.

Besides highway program levies, the only other major tax increase fell on running race tracks. Legislators boosted the tax on pari-mutuel betting more than $30 million a year.

Local governments (cities, counties and townships) got $40 million for the next two years, a half-million more than two years ago. They wanted $56 million.

The state's surplus melted under a $45 1/2 million appropriation for capital improvements.

The Ohio Un-American Activities Commission will be continued until Jan. 31, when the attorney general will take over its activities.

Subversive organizations were outlawed. Public employees who refuse to answer question of property belong to subversive groups may be fired.

Motorists convicted of driving while drunk will have to spend at least three days in jail under a new state law.

Kiwanians Hear Petroleum Theme

"The Great Oil Industry" was the theme of an address given by John L. Marsh, executive secretary of the Petroleum Industry of Ohio, during Kiwanis Club meeting Monday night.

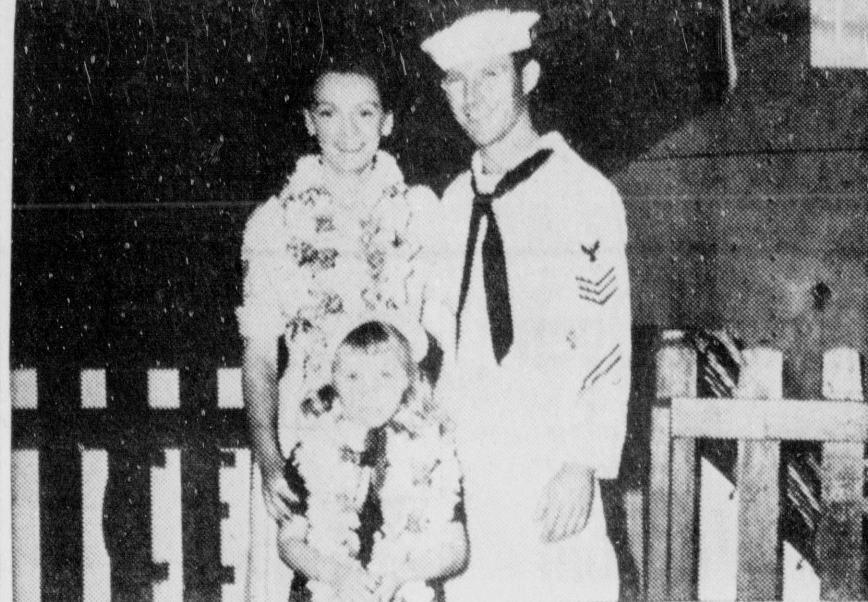

Marsh told Kiwanians there is more horsepower contained in farm machinery in the U. S. than in all of industry. He also told the club the oil industry would like to be a free enterprise, just as any other business.

Guests for the Monday meeting were Leslie May of Circleville and Clyde Wellington, affiliated with the Ohio Petroleum Industry group.

Frank Marion will tell of his role as a delegate to the international convention of Kiwanis in New York City during the next Kiwanis meeting.

Leading Aides Rally To Help Ike's Aid Fund

WASHINGTON (U-P) — President Eisenhower rallied some of his most persuasive aides around him today as he sought to ward off a new congressional slash in foreign aid funds.

Eisenhower invited members of a House appropriations subcommittee to breakfast with him at the White House and arranged to lunch with 23 members of the Senate appropriations group.

To both sessions, the President summoned Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen, Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the new North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander; and Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Parsons, White House liaison man with Congress.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate committee said in advance he expects a presidential plea for foreign aid appropriations near the $5 billion level.

But both Bridges and Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the House committee made it clear they believe Congress is in a mood to cut rather deeply into foreign assistance funds.

Gruenther, scheduled for testimony at a closed session of the Senate committee today, apparently sounded the administration's policy line when he told the House group yesterday that Western Europe may lose confidence in the United States if there are heavy money slashes.

The NATO commander said Europe is listening to Russian peace overtures but "they haven't swallowed them yet."

5 Amendments Going On Ballot

COLUMBUS (U-P) — Ohio's voters will decide on five changes in the state constitution Nov. 3. The proposed amendments would:

Permit the state to issue $500 million worth of bonds to finance new highways.

Provide four-year terms for state officials and legislators.

Create a state board of education with power to appoint a state superintendent of education.

Make Negro as well as white citizens liable to service in the Ohio militia.

Repeal a number of "deadwood" sections of the Ohio Constitution.

Mail Improving

WASHINGTON (U-P) — Seven Ohio cities are among the 183 major communities which will get improved mail service beginning next Monday.

Akron, Canton, Columbus, Dayton, Springfield, Toledo and Youngstown will have extended window service, later collections.

Chinese Open New Attacks On Warfront

delay due to the soggy weather, a genuine lack of Chinese power, or that the Reds were satisfied with their gains so far.

THE SIZE OF the gains were restricted information by order of the 8th Army. But while solid, they did not seem in themselves any real peril to the Allied position.

Red infiltration units were reported as much as four miles behind the Allied main line.

Light spotter planes that flew through rain and low clouds reported the Reds were shutting artillery, supplies and fresh infantry toward new positions.

Bomb and rocket-laden planes, their engines warmed up, marked time for a break in the clouds to roar northward toward the swarming Chinese.

On the front, Allied forces were fully alerted for further Red assaults. Units were sorted out and redeployed over the bloodied sector west of Kumhwa to the Pukhan River. Muddy roads were clogged with supply trucks headed toward the front.

Some exhausted soldiers sprawled out asleep on the ground. Others sat by the side of the road, opening blisters and washing swollen feet in muddy water.

ROK soldiers continued searching for infiltrators left over from the big Red push. Two Chinese infiltrating units were shot up just before noon.

The South Korean troops who bore the brunt of the Red attack received a personal message from President Syngman Rhee. He told his troops to stand firm and die if necessary to stop the Chinese invaders. He praised them for the fight they have made and exhorted them to even greater efforts.

"This is the greatest achievement of the ROK Army," one high ranking Allied officer said. "The four ROK divisions, with only partial help from American artillery and supply units, fought one of the great defensive battles and at noon it looks as if they had won it."

Freshman GOPsters Impressed By Ike

WASHINGTON (U-P) — Four dozen Republican freshmen in the House plied President Eisenhower with food and questions last night and came away with comments like "stimulating" and "inspiring."

"He certainly has learned an awful lot about politics in six months," said Rep. Cretella (R-Conn.). "He has a good grasp of all the problems of the world and the nation."

Eisenhower was guest of honor at the get-together put on by the 48 first-term legislators. He spoke for a half hour, then answered questions for two hours.

JESSE GULICK

Jesse Franklin Gulick, 73, of E. Ohio St., died Tuesday afternoon in his home following a brief illness.

Mr. Gulick was born Jan. 17, 1880, near Darbyville, son of Augustus and Emma Hoover Gulick.

Surviving him is his widow, Josie Switzer Gulick, whom he married in 1905; three sons, Earl, Carl and Mack, all of Circleville; three daughters, Mrs. Gladys Rutter and Miss Margaret Gulick of Circleville and Mrs. Helen Flanagan of Laurelville; a brother, Edward, of Columbus; three sisters, Mrs. Laura Grabbil of near Lockbourne, Mrs. Belle Trego of Commercial Point and Mrs. Nelle Reed of Columbus; and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. S. C. Elsea officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Friends may call in the funeral home after 2 p. m. Thursday.

MRS. EDNA EUBANKS

Mrs. Edna May Eubanks, 59, of Bainbridge, died at 8:35 p. m. Tuesday in Chillicothe hospital following an illness of six months.

Mrs. Eubanks was born June 13, 1894, in Pickaway County, daughter of Addison and Sarah Davis Purcell. She was a cook in Bainbridge schools for 14 years.

Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. Thelma Stanley and Mrs. Mary Frances Purdam, both of Bainbridge, and Mrs. Geraldine Knisley of Nurnburg, Germany; a son, Henry, of Bainbridge; a sister, Mrs. Herbert Taylor, of Chillicothe; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in Bainbridge Church of Christ with the Rev. Norman Ward officiating. Burial will be in Jackson Township cemetery here.

MRS. FRED HOEHNSTEINE

Funeral services for Mrs. Fred Hohensteine, 90, of Columbus, who died Tuesday morning in St. Anthony's hospital, will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday in Grumlich Funeral Home, Columbus. The body will be brought to Circleville at 2 p. m. for burial in Forest cemetery.

Mrs. Bowers Gets Ashville Position

Mrs. Harold Bowers of Ashville has been employed to teach sixth grade in Ashville elementary school this fall.

Mrs. Bowers was hired to succeed Mrs. Bion Bradbury, who resigned to take a teaching post in Fairfield County.

In addition, County Superintendent George McDowell said Mrs. Polly Briggs Tilton has resigned her position as third grade teacher in New Holland. No replacement has been named.

Farm Bureau and the Ohio Grange.

Rep. Frances P. Bolton said most of the Ohio Republican congressmen were thoroughly disturbed over the situation, including the current elections now being held in every Ohio county for township and county PMA committeeman.

The Republicans here call this a "rush" election by Democratic committeemen to get themselves reelected for another year.

"But it's too late to do anything about that now," said Mr. Bolton. "The elections are almost over."

"I talked this whole matter over with Secretary of Agriculture Benson. I don't like to criticize a member of President Eisenhower's cabinet, but I must say he walked around the roseberry bush and gave me no real explanation."

Is Business About To Tilt Down A Little?

Economic Experts Divided On Future In Marts Of Trade

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The big debate today is whether business is about to tilt downward. The stock market appears to think that a Korean truce, coupled with Russian internal weakness, would turn the trend and give the boom its coup de grace.

But most businessmen say they don't go along with this view. And many others stress the continuing momentum of the boom.

"If a boom is at a crest, it is stubbornly refusing to get on with the business of receding," says Albert T. Sommers, business analyst for the National Industrial Conference Board.

"There has yet to appear any statistical evidence outside of stock and commodity markets, that business expectations for the near term have as yet been much altered."

Those who believe a downward tilt will be apparent by the end of the year point, however, to several first signs:

Home building is easing up a little. Mortgage money is hard to find in some localities and financing costs are higher. Older houses are easing in price and new ones are a little slower in selling.

Steel output is slumping a little, as usual in summer, and while a pickup is expected next month, few steelmakers predict that the second half production can equal the first half's record.

Slipping farm income is cutting demand for farm machinery and may be accounting for some drop in household appliance output.

Automakers plan a record output this month, but many used car dealers say sales are disappointing.

Korean truce talks and the confusion over what the Kremlin's inner turmoil holds in store lead many businessmen to fear further cutbacks and cancellations of defense orders here. That could lower industrial production and might cost some jobs.

But Sommers points out that as of now most signs are still strong. First—half corporation profit statements, now rolling in, look good. For the third quarter at least, order books are bulging. Consumer demand for goods held strong in June. Soft goods manufacturers report ordering by merchants is good.

Ag Experts Seek Identical Calves

BELTSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Know anybody with identical twin calves? If so, the Department of Agri-

IT WAS a close shave, but John Szobor emerged the winner in the Ottawa, Ill., centennial beard-growing contest. The centennial is being observed through Sunday, July 19. Oh, yes, his prize was a power lawn mower.

Hole In Cliff Traps Youngster

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Alvin McCully, playing with some friends in a park yesterday, saw a large black hole in a rock cliff 15 feet above ground level, clambered up and poked his head inside.

The hole was smaller than it had looked. Alvin couldn't pull his head back out.

His chums tugged and pulled. They called police, and Patrolman William Hutcherson arrived to do some pulling and tugging too. Alvin stayed stuck.

Finally Hutcherson got a screwdriver and a hammer plus a towel to wrap Alvin's head in. After 25 minutes in the dark, Alvin was chipped free, unhurt.

Guilty Conscience Returns Loot

NORWAL, Calif. (AP)—A voice on the telephone told Deputy Sheriff G. E. Rowley yesterday: "I just held up a service station in North Long Beach. I'm sorry I did it, and you'll find the money in an envelope on a window ledge outside your station."

Sure enough, the envelope was there, containing $77 cash and $350 in checks, the exact loss reported by the victim.

Scientists need the calves for feeding tests and unless more twins are obtained in a hurry the experiments will be seriously handicapped.

Officials say they can learn as much from identical twins as they can from a dozen unrelated calves.

How Can Bride Control The Cash Without Hubby Feeling The Pain?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The big problem of a June bride in July, when the honeymoon is over, is to teach her husband he can't throw away his money the way he did when he was courting her.

Her task in at least two out of three American homes is to take over the spending of the major part of the paycheck herself.

How can she do this without or without leaving her husband secretly feeling he weeded a lady con artist?

I asked a group of older married men how they would advise a bride on this problem. They expressed flat disbelief that any woman, even a tender bride, would listen to advice on matrimony from any man. But they were flattered at the idea, strange as it seemed to them.

They divided into two camps. "The best thing for her to do is to let her husband handle the money until the landlord threatens to throw them out because they are behind in the rent, an auto loan company repossesses their car, and the department stores cut off their credit," was one view. "Then he'll be glad to turn the family finance over to her."

"The thing for the bride to do is to take over the handling of her husband's income gradually," said one old-timer. "A newly married man is jealous of his money, because he has been used to spending it himself."

"You have to break him to the harness gradually, just as you do a colt. A horse gets so he has to take the harness. But if a wife breaks her husband in too fast he will resent her and the harness, too, all his life."

His fellow wise men nodded gravely.

"The best way is for the bride to divide the dough into three piles each payday—one pile for him, one for their bills, and one for her," said another. "Naturally, her own pile at the start will be so small that even her husband will object that it's unfair."

"But as he gets used to letting her pay the bills, she gradually changes what's in the piles. She begins to put more $5 bills at the bottom of her pile, more $10 bills in the middle pile, and more $1 bills on her husband's pile. Before long he will be asking her for lunch money three days before payday, and never know really what's happened to him. It's the old shell game."

"That's right," said a third. "Another thing: She should keep a family budget book. It doesn't make any difference what she puts down in it. No husband can understand a woman's arithmetic. He just wants some evidence that she thinks she knows what she is doing."

A fourth elderly married man suggested the bride should never make a report on the family finances until she had fed her hubby a big dinner.

"No man will start a quarrel about money when he has a full stomach and his shoes are off," he said. "He doesn't have the strength."

The group then voted unanimously the following recommendations to brides:

1. "As a young husband is upset and feels lost the first year of marriage, see that during that time he is allowed the consolation of buying a few pretty things just for himself—at least one suit, a pair of shoes, three shirts and a necktie now and then."

2. "Don't treat yourself to a fur coat that first year. Be brave. Make him feel guilty because he is getting more new things than you are."

3. "After that you can buy yourself anything you want. He'll never know it's new anyway unless you start bragging."

Dallas, Ft. Worth Eye Rain Project

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas and Fort Worth, 30-mile-apart Texas rivals, may get together to try to make it rain.

City managers and water officials of the two cities conferred yesterday on whether they should jointly hire Dr. Irving P. Krick of Denver, who does a big business in rain-increasing.

They agreed they should, if their City Councils approve.

Dallas signed a six-month contract last November with Krick's Water Resources Development Corp. While cloud-seeding was under way the city's lake picked up 80,000 acre feet of water. Fort Worth's main lake lost 7,000 acre feet.

NEED NEW RECKONING

A CONGRESSMAN from Iowa is surprised that the Navy should utilize three commissioned officers to investigate ship-board deaths of pets of naval personnel. Representative Gross suspects that this sort of thing results in waste of the taxpayers' money and believes an investigation is called for.

On the face of it, there are many practices of the military, government bureaus, and Congress itself, which seem nonsensical, but for which justification is attempted. The morale-boosting quality of protection for pets aboard ship is not denied. But this is not to say what number of commissioned officers should be needed to handle the matter, if any.

While each government service takes all necessary steps to accomplish its mission, not sufficient emphasis is given to the efficient, economical utilization of personnel. The military in particular has been remiss in not putting a dollar tag on every man jack's time as is done in industry. There has been strong pressure in Washington that this be done and some of the barriers of tradition are giving way. On a strict time-study accounting basis, the Navy might learn some surprising facts about what each job is worth.

THERE CAN BE ENOUGH

SUFFICIENT FOOD can be provided for all the people of the world to maintain proper nutritional standards, the Food and Agriculture Organization, a department of the United Nations, is convinced. Application of known methods of increasing food production per unit can end famines and the partial starvation of millions of people in many lands.

In a relatively short period, the United States has increased livestock production 50 per cent breeding unit, Australia has trebled wool production per sheep and crop production the world over can be increased 30 per cent by use of fertilizers. Irrigation offers vast opportunities in many lands, forests and timberlands are not properly exploited, and there are marine food resources which have only been tapped. The FAO says 10 per cent of the food stored in the world goes to waste. The U. S. has bulging warehouses, but this food can not be distributed to hungry lands except as gifts from American taxpayers.

When international rivalries subside and leaders once more think about human welfare, a start can be made toward applying some of the known methods of reducing hunger.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

As word seeps through the Iron Curtain, the difference of view which is shaking the Soviet world is between Malenkov and Molotov. Beria is the first of the Troika to go. Maybe he needs a fair trial, but he will not have that.

Who will be next to go? Stalin played it that way after Lenin's death when he used Kamenev and Zinoviev against Trotsky while he sat back to await the destruction of all three.

The issues involved in the quarrel are not clear, but whatever they are, they are pawns in the struggle for the first place in the succession to Stalin's power. It would appear that Molotov, having had experience in foreign relations, is moving toward the unification of Germany on a basis more satisfactory to the Western Powers.

Malenkov's view seems to be that the Western Powers do not matter, but that the Communist Parties must be preserved in all countries. If concessions are made to the Western Powers, which imperil the European Communist Parties, the bulwarks of the defense of Soviet Russia will be imperilled.

The quarrel reminds me of that between Stalin and Trotsky over the question as to whether Socialism can succeed in one country. This type of ideological warfare is a device to line up supporters behind the contenders.

In the end, Stalin exiled Trotsky and ultimately had him murdered. Did that prove Stalin ideologically right? From a Marxist standpoint it did, because Stalin survived.

In a system in which those are fittest who survive, the test of correctness can only be survival.

Molotov is a heavy-minded, clerkish type of bureaucrat who has managed to survive all the inner quarrels in the Kremlin. He and Kaganovich are the only old Bolsheviks who have outlived the purges. They not only continued to live but both have remained in high office. Molotov is one of the Troika (Trio) who succeeded Stalin; Kaganovich is in the Presidium.

Compared to these two, such men as Malenkov and Beria are babies, both in years and experience.

Yet, whereas Molotov has had long tenure, Malenkov and Beria were personally trained by Stalin, who was a man of singular political astuteness, whose rise to power was marked by few false steps. He could be subservient almost to fawning. He could withdraw from a situation so that others might think their day had come. He could kill with the swiftness of a panther.

Molotov was never more than a servant to Stalin, but Malenkov and Beria were Stalin's pupils. The difference will be clear to anyone who studies the art of revolution and empire-building.

My guess is that the next step for real trouble will not be in Germany but in Japan. Whoever is strongest in the Kremlin needs some kind of a success, something to prove that his judgment is correct, his initiative effective, and his maneuvers successful.

Germany is a very complicated situation and difficult to work out because of French and American suspicions of British policy. The failure of the Bermuda conference

Chest Pain Not Necessarily A Sign of Any Heart Trouble

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH the first pang of pain in the chest, most people immediately fear they are the victims of heart disease. Though this may be true, there are many other causes of chest discomfort.

Chest pain resulting from work or exertion is not always due to a difficulty of the heart. It may be due to a disturbance of the pleura, which is the lining of the lungs, or a disturbance of the chest wall, shoulder or arms. After all, all the organs are used more with exertion and could logically cause the chest pain.

Pain Reproduced

When the pain is due to a heart disturbance, nitroglycerin will usually eliminate the pain.

If the pain is due to a disturbance in the chest wall, the pressing of the front and back of the chest toward each other might reproduce the pain, showing the patient what is the cause of his pain. Moving the arms or chest in all directions may also reproduce pain if it is not of a heart origin.

Sometimes the stomach is overfilled with air and may be the cause for chest pain similar to heart pain. The physician must revert to filling the stomach with gas by means of a tube in order to reproduce the pain and show the patient that the stomach is the cause for the chest discomfort, and not the heart. The large intestine may also be at fault in many instances.

One of the most frequent causes for chest pain is severe worry or anxiety. This will cause the person to breathe faster, which may produce chest pressure.

Persons who have chest pain that is not of a heart origin frequently feel that the heart is at fault, even though their physicians tell them that there is some other cause. This is because we all have a basic anxiety or worry about our hearts. Since there is a close relationship in the mind of the average person between the heart and the chest, we have a tendency to worry that any pain that occurs anywhere in the chest is due to a heart disturbance.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

G. N.: Would drinking excessive amounts of water by persons engaged in an athletic contest be harmful?

Answer: A small amount of water taken during an athletic contest is usually not harmful, but when large amounts are consumed, it may prove injurious to the body by causing poisoning of the kidneys.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
OUTSIDE the house a gun sounded. The gun spoke out in the yard. God! Manning thought. Laura! Have you got safe away, Laura?

That gun was a waspish one, not deep throated like a Colt or a Winchester. About .22 caliber, Manning judged. It sounded once, it sounded again; and it was hard to place the sound, though it seemed to come from behind the house. Gal? But he'd hung Gal's gun away, and it had been a forty-five at that. Then he understood, for he'd sensed that first day in the basin that Gal carried a hide-out gun; but he'd forgotten it to-night. A derring, likely—he'd once seen a two-shot superimposed barrel model of Wesson make, and that might be the kind Gal was carrying. And Gal might readily have picked up such a gun in a second-hand store since leaving prison.

Now why hadn't he taken the extra few minutes to drag Gal into the room cellar and tie him? But the alarm was given. Inside the house, Torgin was roaring in the darkness, and someone raised a bellow in the bunkhouse. Manning propelled Purdy forward with a stiff, outthrust arm.

"Into saddle!" Manning shouted. Out in the barn, the dog was barking furiously. He must have been shut in for the night, and he was lunging against the barn door. Lamplight sprang up in the bunkhouse. Someone, underwear clad and looking like a wraith, showed in the bunkhouse doorway.

Manning was across the yard and lifting himself to his own saddle. Purdy snatched up the reins of Gal's cayuse and made an awkward attempt to mount. The horse shied, sidestepping and rolling its eyes. Purdy followed the mount in its skittish maneuvering. In Manning was the cry: Hurry! Purdy! but he made no sound. Purdy made a mighty effort and got up into leather. Gal's mount pitched a couple of times and swapped ends. Purdy jostled like a sack of grain and looked as though he might pitch over the horse's head. But he got the mount wheeled around.

They cut out through the gateway. Manning forced his horse parallel to the fence and looked in the direction of the room cellar, though the house blocked his view. He made out dim movement in the shadows by the house. Then he recognized Gal, down on his hands and knees, crawling. And even as Manning watched, the strength went out of Gal and the man flattened to the ground. Poor devil! Manning thought and found his own sympathy queer, all things considered.

Ahead loomed the canyon wall and the trail's beginning. Behind them the yard was an anarchy of sound, with men calling out and men running and a gun's deep roar in the night. Manning hipped around for a look back, and he saw Torgin standing in the doorway of the house. Torgin had taken time to pull on his pants. Red blossomed where Torgin stood, and Manning knew it was Torgin doing the shooting.

As they galloped, Manning looked down on the moonlit roof of the ranch-house and the yard beyond. Light fell from the open bunkhouse door; men scurried about. Over by the corral there seemed to be massed movement, and he judged that most of the crew was saddled up. He stopped his steady climbing; he was panting and his chest hurt. He dragged the Winchester from its scabbard and laid a few shots down there, not aiming at anything special but just kicking up the dust and giving Slash 7 something to think about. The crew scattered. Guns lighted the darkness below like malignant fires. Six-shooters, and the range was too great. Manning restored the Winchester and started on up the trail, reaching that clump of trees where he'd parted with Laura in the late afternoon.

Something stirred, and Laura emerged, astride her wagon horse. She nudged her mount forward, crying, "Cole—"

"I've got Purdy," he said and lifted himself to the saddle. "But we've kicked up a hornet's nest. They'll be hard after us."

Laura looked south, toward Mannington. "That way?"

Manning shook his head. "I think not. They'll expect us to head for town. Better turn north, I say. We'll have wild country to lose them in and walls ahead if we have to make a stand."

"But they may remember that dugout, too," Laura protested. "Gal found Packrat there."

"He found him by the creek. Remember? According to the sign, Gal didn't drop into the coulee where the dugout is. I don't think we'll have to worry about Gal anyway. He's in no shape to ride."

A few hours in bed made a difference to a man, Slade Ruxton reflected, even when the bed was as lumpy as the one in the Mannington hotel and there was only a cracked green shade to put against the afternoon's sunlight. Come to think about it, he'd slept in railroad depots and in mud wagons and on the flat tops of freight cars in his day. Slept in a tree once, for that matter. He'd learned long ago how to snatch a bit of rest whenever the chance provided. Well, there'd be better days. Once he had that twenty-five thousand dollars in his pocket, he'd have a look at San Francisco and buy himself the best bed that the best hotel provided. That was a promise, and he always kept the promises he made to himself.

Good dreaming, this, tuned to the steady clip-clip of a horse's hoofs. Around Ruxton the moonlight stood ghostly and far reaching as he pressed northward into the Bootjack, not pushing the horse hard. He should be nattering, he supposed, but in him was a certain reluctance to face present realities. He was on his way to Slash 7 to drive a bargain with Mack Torgin. And if he'd guessed Torgin's nature right from the pieces he'd put together about the man, Torgin would make a sharp dicker. Which meant that the twenty-five thousand dollars would not be twenty-five thousand at all, but something less.

Too bad there had to be other fingers in the pie. Too bad indeed. Yet sitting in the Mannington restaurant, he'd known that he must deal with Torgin, his scheme regarding Burke Griffin having failed. Nothing had changed since. Just the same, it was vinegary in his mouth to contemplate parting with some of that Wells Fargo reward.

His long, saturnine face drew into a scowl and his hand tightened hard on the reins. He rode on through the night, letting the horse set its own pace and pick its own way, so long as they skirted the west wall of the basin. When Ruxton sensed he'd come far enough, he began watching for that clump of trees that marked the canyon trail. Looked like the trees up there ahead, and at the same time he made out movement in the yonder night.

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 15 — The temporary and possibly permanent sidelining of Sen. Robert A. Taft as director and executor of Republican policy on Capitol Hill represents an incalculable loss to an Administration whose relations with Congress are becoming more erratic and embittered every day.

Although able and hard-working, Sen. William F. Knowland of California is no substitute for "Mister Republican." He is too serious, too positive, too uncompromising for the task of leadership in a chamber where the GOP has only a one-man majority.

He lost several decisions on fairly important questions because he failed to consult the Democrats in advance. Taft could always pick up a few opposition votes through personal friendship or the exercise of hard, Midwestern logic.

ADMIRE TAFT — Although he presents a cold, unbending personality to the public, the invalided Ohioan is a man of great personal charm off the Senate floor. He has the affection as well as the admiration of his colleagues. Unlike the aloof Californian, he commanded a solid bloc of almost 30 Republican senators who preferred him to Eisenhower as the party nominee last year. Even when they disagreed with White House foreign policy, as in the Bohlen affair, he was able to hold them fast for the Administration.

RESTRAIN MCCARTHY — Taft could even soften and restrain the ebullient and irrepressible Joe McCarthy. Whereas numerous associates condemned and derided the Wisconsin prosecutor's brash and novel tactics, the Ohioan saw basic good in the effort to expose Reds inside and outside officialdom.

Taft's moderating influence, as well as Ike's refusal to engage in a needless brawl, is chiefly responsible for reasonably good relations between the President and the rough-houser from the Badger State.

Perhaps Taft's most valuable asset was his close tieup with prominent Southern members like Byrd of Virginia, George of Georgia, Democratic Leander Johnson of Texas and Russell of Georgia. Many Dixie Democrats preferred him to Eisenhower last year, but backed Ike only because they did not believe Taft could carry any state below the Mason and Dixon Line.

MILLIKEN HINTED — Should Taft be incapacitated permanently, the man frequently spoken of as permanent successor is Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, a 62-year-old lawyer and businessman. A solid rather than a spectacular figure, he has been the Ohioan's chief aide and adviser, especially on such domestic matters as finances, taxes, tariffs, etc.

It has been Millikin rather than Knowland who has presented the most successful defense of the Administration's "hard money" and allied policies since Taft had to abdicate the active leadership. The Colorado member also routed the learned and professional Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois in a debate over irrigation and reclamation policies of bread-and-butter concern to the Far West.

PROBLEM — Pending a final decision on Taft's future and permanent role, the question of Senate leadership has become one of the Administration's principal problems. Knowland, for instance, although going along with the White House on the Korean truce, seems to regard it as a sellout of Syngman Rhee.

He is also more insistent on support of Chiang Kai-shek than are Eisenhower or Secretary Dulles. They envisage the day when we may have to do business with the Chinese Communist regime, assuming that it follows the fashion of other satellites by rebelling against Moscow domination.

Knowland also believes that the Far East is of greater importance to American security and the defeat of Communist expansion than Western Europe. From the long-range, historical viewpoint, he may be right. But at the moment his attitude places him in direct and open conflict with the Eisenhower-Dulles program. They are still European-minded.

Under such circumstances, it is difficult to see how the Californian can continue to serve as White House spokesman or leader of the Senate. And yet, unless he is willing to step aside, it will be difficult to dislodge him. So, Eisenhower's daily prayer on behalf of his chief convention rival is:

"Bob, please get well and get back on the job on Capitol Hill!"

Try, Stop Me

The composer of a song should be sure of his or her own position before suing for plagiarism. Lawyer Alexander Lindsey tells what happened to the composer of a love ballad who charged that another crooner creation was a dead steal of her melody. It was proved in court that both pieces had been lifted from Die Fledermaus classic—and the case, of course, was thrown out of court.

It is Stanley Freeman's notion that if "Oklahoma" ever is produced in Moscow, the curtain will go up to show a stalwart young buckaroo languishing in jail, singing through the bars, to the tune of "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning": "Oh, what a beautiful tractor! Oh, what a lovely machine! Maybe I shouldn't have backed her Into the tomb of Lenin!"

Solaqua Garden Club Holds Sesquicentennial Meeting

Junior Club Gives Displays

Antiques traced back to the sixteenth century were on display at the Solaqua Garden Club's sesquicentennial meeting. The parish house of the Robtown Evangelical United Brethren church was decorated with a patriotic color scheme and members attended the meeting in colonial dress.

Mrs. Cecil Ward, Mrs. Charles Huston and Mrs. Boyd Hines served as hostesses for the evening.

Mrs. Ward gave the devotional reading and Judy Huston and Sally Hines, Commercial Point Junior Garden Club members who were guests at the meeting, offered prayer.

Mrs. Ruth Perrill won the prize for the best-dressed lady of the early colonial period. Members of the Junior Garden Club, under the leadership of Mrs. Orville Dountz, arranged a table setting including a centerpiece, a six-inch miniature, a coffee table arrangement, a corsage, an Oriental arrangement and a three-inch miniature.

Guests present were Mrs. Carmel Rasor, Mrs. George Bochart, Miss Carolyn Bochart, Mrs. John Rush, Mrs. Burt Bowers and Mrs. Robert Thomas.

The August meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Walter Cummins with Mrs. Benjamin Vause and Mrs. Alfred Cook assisting.

Mrs. Neff Hosts Union Guild

Mrs. Charles Neff of Circleville Route 3 was hostess to members of Union Guild. Mrs. Addie Hill was assistant hostess.

An all-day sewing session with a covered dish dinner will be held July 29 in the home of Mrs. George Fischer, Circleville Route 3.

A family picnic is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Aug. 5 in the home of Mrs. Willard Duleson, Circleville Route 3. Mrs. Lawrence Kimmel, Mrs. Dora Hunt and Mrs. Mary Lanman will assist at this picnic.

Refreshments were served to 12 members and five guests, who were Mrs. Garland Minor of Niagara Falls, N. Y., Mrs. Warren Dietrich and children of Lancaster and Mrs. Eugene Zeeck of Circleville.

Original Troop At Scippo Lodge

Shirley Dunlap, Theresa Hill, Carol Goodchild, Yvonne Clifton, Phyllis Clifton and Jacqueline Smith, original members of the Girl Scout Troop 9, enjoyed an overnight camping and swimming trip Monday night in Scippo Lodge, Gold Cliff Park.

Nancy Bower and Sally Eshelman, also members of the Troop were visitors Monday evening. Mrs. Mac Noggle was the sponsor of the group.

ME Commission Elects Officers

Members of the commission on education of Williamsport Methodist church met Sunday to elect new officers and teachers for the coming year.

The Rev. John DeVol presided and offered the opening prayer.

Dress-Jacket Combo Gains New Favor

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Fashion Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—The endlessly wearable dress-and-jacket costume in feather-weight companion tweeds gains new importance in the fall collection of Grabois, a house not included in the New York Dress Institute couture group organization, but nevertheless attracting wide attention among buyers and press.

Designed for the average figure and priced for the average budget, this group of dresses and costumes followed the slim line of the season, but eases the straight-and-narrow silhouette just enough for comfort.

Typical of the easy-to-wear costumes shown is one consisting of chiffon-weight tweed dress in charcoal gray, with a coordinated jacket in light-weight nubby tweed. The jacket has a fitted line and a smooth look through the shoulders; the dress is slim, but the skirt allows ease for walking.

More extreme and definitely striking is a sheath dress embroidered all over in black sequins, trimmed with a white satin neckline bow.

Ben Zuckerman, also previewing his collection for the visiting press today, shows a distinguished collection of suits, coats and costumes featuring all variations of the jacket silhouette, from the short box variety to fitted, semi-fitted and belted tunic styles.

He features both bulky flecked

Young People To Confer Degree

World Today

By DON WHITEHEAD
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Three little injuns out in a canoe..."

"One fell overboard and then there were two."

That's the way it went in the old jingle — and that's what happened in the Kremlin canoe.

The canoe just wasn't big enough for Malenkov, Molotov and Beria — so Beria went overboard with an assist from his old pals. They pinned on his shirt tail the label "bourgeois renegade."

"Bourgeois renegade" obviously is a dreadful sort of cuss word. It's the sort of thing that would cause men down in Texas to say: "Smile when you say that, Pard-nuh."

Beria may be undergoing right now the brainwash treatment his secret police undoubtedly used to get those abject public confessions of guilt for which Russian trials are famous.

If the script is followed, Beria will confess to being "an adventurer and agent of capitalist imperialism" and acknowledge the sin of plotting to seize power and return Russia to the ways of capitalism. Then it's very likely Beria will be shot.

That leaves the two little injuns — Malenkov and Molotov — staring at each other from opposite ends of the canoe. Each of them must be aware of the dark figure of death in the shadows around them. Each must know that one death isn't enough to insure power and safety for either.

In this evil atmosphere, the Soviets are going through an internal crisis at the same time that workers are daring open rebellion in East Germany.

There are reports of restlessness in other satellite countries. Perhaps the greatest comfort the Western world can take from this situation lies in the knowledge that hope of freedom hasn't been crushed behind the Iron Curtain — and that Russia appears to be in no position at the present time for war.

There is little likelihood of Russia springing a surprise war against the Western world, at least until the fight for power is ended in the Kremlin and the satellites are brought under iron-fisted control. Neither appears imminent.

The armed strength of the Allies in Europe can't be measured solely by the number of divisions and guns and planes. Their strength also includes the hidden support that would come from the guerrilla activity, revolts and sabotage of people waiting for a chance to throw off the Soviet shackles.

In case of war, Russian supply lines always would be vulnerable. Food, ammunition and reinforcements would be moving through hostile country. The Russians must be well aware of this threat in any war in Europe. No army is safe with enemies behind it.

The fight for power in the Kremlin thus offers a measure of relief in the cold war. How long it will continue no one can say.

But the little injun jingle gives a clue on what the future may hold:

"Two little injuns foolin' with a gun. One shot the other, and then there was one."

Akron Tightening Law On Parking

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—You can't beat traffic tickets here any longer by claiming someone else parked your car in an illegal zone.

Previously, to make a parking ticket stick, police had to prove the owner actually had been at the wheel. But City Council plugged the loophole yesterday by making the owner liable no matter who did the parking.

The new statute is expected to net the city an extra $100,000 in fines each year.

Naked Woman Betrays Convict

CLEVELAND (AP)—As so often happens, a woman betrayed Paul Smith, arrested for violating his parole from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

"I'm not your man," said Smith, 42, when U. S. deputy marshals went to his home yesterday with a warrant. But the deputies lifted Smith's right sleeve to uncover a tattoo of a naked woman, just as it was described in the arrest papers.

Lack Of Sodium Causes Sickness

It is the lack of sodium, not of chloride, which is responsible for sickness in cattle with salt deficiencies.

Salt is composed of sodium and chloride. Recent experiments were conducted to determine which chemical was more responsible for sickness in cases of salt deficiency.

The experiments showed cattle with salt deficiencies regained health when sodium was added to their diet, but the addition of chloride produced no results.

School Consolidation Battle Being Waged By Ohio Chiefs

COLUMBUS (AP) — School consolidations have wiped out 226 local school districts in Ohio in the last five years.

It has been a running battle much of the way. Persons who favor consolidations say they mean economy and better education. Persons who don't like consolidations say they are going too far, they work hardships and that they are being made illegally.

The state department of education—big backer of consolidation—says it is just beginning the struggle to convince many local districts of the need for fewer and larger schools.

Consolidation is by state education department definition a program of melting down two or more small high schools into a larger unit in order to cut costs for each pupil and give broader, better instruction.

The state department of education has been the moving force in the consolidation picture. It has been using a potent weapon—revocation of charters—in forcing consolidation in cases where schools continue to fall below standard requirements.

It is the use of this weapon that has brought the consolidation problem to the Ohio Supreme Court.

When a charter is revoked, the school district has two alternatives: 1. The district can send its students to another, accredited school on a tuition basis, or 2. The district can consolidate with another school having approved facilities. In many cases, consolidation also means construction of a new, larger high school with modern facilities.

The big heat is at the high school level, but elementary schools are affected because they stand to get any money saved in the operation of district high schools.

The court fights revolve around the manner in which the state department revokes charters rather than consolidation itself.

One case involves the Mill Creek School District in Williams County. The district told Common Pleas Court the state education department did not follow the administrative procedures act in revoking its charter. The state contends the administrative procedures act does not apply.

The state department, if forced to follow the act, would be required to go through a long process of legal notices, public hearings, and other formalities. It hopes to avoid this. It has appealed to the high court against rulings of the Williams County Common Pleas Court, and the Court of Appeals. These courts upheld motions of the district school board to revoke action of the state department.

Meanwhile consolidations are continuing, many without much opposition. In 50 recent cases, 27 districts chose to "consign" their pupils to approved schools rather than consolidate. Twenty-three chose to consolidate. In 33 other cases, consolidation took place without charters ever being in question.

At least three counties, Clark, Delaware and Hocking, have completed their consolidation programs. But in Hocking County the largest consolidation is held up by order of the common pleas court.

Opponents claim consolidation would mean many children would have to go greater distances to new schools. This is particularly important in rural areas. Farm work and weather conditions affect school attendance.

In most communities the schools have become the hub of social and civic activities and athletic events. People of these districts do not want to lose this "hub."

This feeling has been shared by some educators. Recently in yellow Springs at the 10th annual national conference of the small community, Dr. William M. Robinson, director of the rural life and education department of Western Michigan College of Education, urged "revaluation of school consolidation plans for rural areas."

"I am in favor of school consolidation, but I believe we should give serious thought to just how far it is wise to carry such action.

We must protect community life and the feeling of unity," he said.

State educators agree in part. Some think the community high school is a great thing—if districts can afford it, which is seldom the case. Other school officials think the old high school, turned over to elementary use, can still be the "hub" of the community.

R. M. Eyman, assistant state superintendent of schools, says most parent-teacher association activity already is centered in the rural elementary schools rather than in high schools.

His department thinks good high school educational requirements call for a good science department, industrial arts, home economics, and vocational agriculture departments, all needing labs, shops and special facilities. To furnish these for 10 to 20 pupils is impossible. Per capita cost is too high.

In a recent study of the trend of consolidation in Ohio, Eyman reported good progress had been made in Adams County in the last five years, reducing the number of high schools from 20 to 8; Belmont from 23 to 16; Delaware from 11 to 5; Hamilton from 35 to 25; Hocking from 12 to 7; Jefferson from 19 to 14; Lawrence from 17 to 9; Lorain from 25 to 18; Medina from 18 to 13; Monroe from 20 to 12; Portage 23 to 15; Union 15 to 9; Vinton 14 to 7; Wayne 18 to 10.

Twenty-two counties have made no reduction in the number of districts since 1948. They are: Allen, Brown, Clinton, Crawford, DeFiance, Fairfield, Fayette, Gallia, Greene, Marion, Meigs, Morgan, Ottawa, Perry, Pike, Ross, Sandusky, Seneca, Trumbull, Warren, Williams and Wyandot.

Forty-three other counties have not reduced the number of districts by more than three since 1948.

ARRESTED after Forest service "fire detectives" and Sheriff Lyle G. Sale amassed circumstantial evidence, unemployed Stanford P. Patton, 26-year-old volunteer firefighter, confesses that he set a California coast range forest fire which killed 15 men near Willows. He said he needed money for his wife and three children and started the fire because "I figured I could get a job fighting fire." (International)

Destroyer Hits School Of Whales

TOKYO (AP)—The Navy today said the U. S. destroyer Blue bumped into two or three whales while en route to a Pacific island.

George Wagner of Memphis, Mo. said: "When we got back to the spot where we hit the whale we found a large red stain in the ocean with two whales thrashing around. We must have hit a whole school of whales."

The destroyer was not damaged.

Bar Association In Dilemma Again

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Bar Association was in somewhat of a dilemma today.

It refuses to endorse three municipal judges seeking re-election and can't find suitable candidates to oppose them. Three years ago the same situation arose and the judges won anyway.

Vandal Angered By 'Dumb Cop'
RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Here's what police officer W. H. Gabbard found when he left his home at nearby Highland Springs yesterday: The tires, convertible top and upholstery of his car had been slashed. Hub caps had been removed and the radio aerial and rear-view mirror had been broken off. And, scratched deeply in one side of the car was the note: "Dumb cop."

Should U.N. Keep Troublemakers?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Should the United Nations retain troublemakers or limit membership to nations of the free world?

Asked that question at a luncheon yesterday, Henry Cabot Lodge, United States delegate to the U. N., replied: "It is curious to have the principal arsonist in the fire department. But I would rather have him in the fire department than out of it in the bushes where I can't see him."

Then he added: "I may change my mind about that matter in six months."

Flares Labeled Cause Of 'Saucer'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force announced today a powerful new flare for night air photography and said the device has been responsible for some of the reports of flying saucers in the past two years.

"Police and field officials were besieged with phone calls reporting flying saucers or planes going down in flames" when the 10 million candlepower flare was first tested secretly in 1951 near Windsor Locks, Conn., the Air Force said in a statement.

A test near Detroit also brought numerous calls from excited observers the Air Force said.

Essentially the device is a giant magnesium flare, attached to the wing of a reconnaissance plane and controlled by the pilot.

Gillman Cites 5 Reasons Why Split-T Is Great In Football

CINCINNATI (AP)—Baseball, golf and tennis are taking up most of the space on the sports pages these days, but it's still football time for Sid Gillman.

Gillman, head football coach at the University of Cincinnati, today discussed the "split T" offense, calling it the "greatest ground attack ever conceived."

"There is no defense that can do more than slow down the split T and none can stop it completely," he said.

There are five major reasons why the split T attack is so difficult to the defense, Gillman continued. Here's the way Sid listed them:

1—The split T offense is built around the quick opening in the line and there is no play in football that makes the ball carrier tougher to stop.

2—Split T utilizes the ingenious methods of changing plays at the line of scrimmage by use of the "rub-off system." Under this system the quarterback, after looking over the defense can change or rub off one play and direct another into a more vulnerable spot.

3—Every split T play is an option play. Regardless of the preconceived designation, the ball carrier is taught to pick open holes in the line according to the action of the defense.

4—The system of offensive line splits utilized in the split T formation puts tremendous pressure on the defense in that most of the defensive line is isolated and out of the play. This is similar to the old army game of spreading the enemy forces and then attacking at a point left sparsely guarded.

5—Deception in the split T originates at the line of scrimmage. In other formations it originates three or four yards behind the line and then the ball must be brought to the line. That gives the defense more time to react.

Gillman said he believes there will be a marked trend toward the play under single platoon football. Since the split T offense uses minimum of plays, Gillman feels coaches will switch to that formation so they might devote more time to building defenses and other phases of the game.

The UC coach has two ways in mind to slow down the split T offense against his team this coming season. The first is to get as many players as possible close to the line of scrimmage and still have a defense deployed in such manner as to give some semblance of pass defense.

The second idea is that, since the quarterback in split T formations works close to the line, the defensive line must make penetration immediately to disturb the ball exchange and force fumbles and mistakes.

Charlie Dressen, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the pilot of the winning National League, had this to say:

"When you get tough pitching, they're tough to hit. I wish I had that kind of pitching all season."

And Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees and the boss man for the American Leaguers, blamed inability to hit for most of the AL woes.

Casey also had some rough words for an umpire and the wind. He insisted Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves was not hit by a pitched ball in the fifth inning when the Nationals scored two runs. He also declared Larry Doby's ninth-inning fly would have been a home run except for the wind.

But he added: "We got beat and we got beat fairly."

Happiest guy for the Nationals was Peevée Reese, Brooklyn shortstop. Although he had played in seven previous games he never had gotten a hit in 13 times at bat.

Yesterday he knocked out a single and a double.

Has All-Star Injury Jinx Struck Again?

CINCINNATI (AP)—Has the All-Star injury jinx struck again? Casey Stengel was a mighty worried man today as he took a league-leading New York Yankee into St. Louis for a three-game series.

News that Mickey Mantle found it painful to walk following the aggravation of a pulled leg muscle in yesterday's All-Star Game was even more distressing to the grizzled pilot than the American League's 5-1 defeat at the hands of the Nationals.

The pain was so severe that Mantle may not be able to play against the Browns tomorrow night. The switch-hitting star won't be sure until before game time but all he knows is that his leg is "hurting."

Stengel was blaming himself today for Mantle's re-injury. He permitted Mickey to play in the All-Star Game against his better judgment. It wasn't until five minutes before the start of the game that Casey decided to yield to Mantle's insistence on playing.

In the seventh inning, Mickey hit a sharp force-play grounder to shortstop and, in putting on speed to avert a double play, re-injured his left leg. The young slugger was playing with a taped leg, hurt for the first time two weeks ago, and re-injured last Sunday against Washington.

The crowd of 30,846 cash customers saw a game entirely different from what they had anticipated. Expecting to see the sluggers knock down the Crosley Field fences, the fans saw instead the pitchers all but completely dominate the hitters. No home runs were hit for the first time since 1944. There wasn't even a measly triple. The only extra base hit was a two-bagger by Peevée Reese that could have been held to a single with sharper fielding.

In all, 15 hits were made, 10 by the victors. Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn, Curt Simmons and Murrey Dickson, in that order, held the American Leaguers to five singles. They had a two-hit shutout until the ninth when singles by Ferris Fain, pinch hitter Jonny Mize and Minnie Minoso off Dickson provided the only AL run.

The defeat was the fourth straight for the American League as yet to win an All-Star Game. The Yankee manager has more luck in the fall, however, as his four World Series triumphs attest. The American League still holds a 12-3 edge after the 20th game.

The National League attack was paced by Enos Slaughter and Reese, a pair of veteran All-Star performers. Slaughter, now a 10-year-man in All-Star play, gave his greatest performance. He rapped two hits, drove in a run and scored two. He also stole a base and electrified the crowd with a brilliant diving catch in the sixth inning.

Reese, hitless in eight previous All-Star Games, drove in two runs with a single and double.

Sieverts, Reigel Pitch LBL Tie; Little Kiwanians Pound Jaycees

Walt Sieverts for Kiwanis and Jerry Reigel for the Jaycees, two high and thin right-handers, tangled in Ted Lewis Park Tuesday night in a sparkling mound battle that ended the Little Bigger League contest in a 1-1 tie.

Darkness halted the fray at the end of the sixth inning after the Kiwanians came from behind to even the figures in the fifth.

Meanwhile, in the Little League, Red Wilson's Jaycees cut loose with a hitting fiesta behind a new pitcher and romped over the little Kiwanians, 14 to 7. The game put the little loop in a double-hitch knot. Elks and Rotary are tied for first, and Kiwanis and the Jaycees are tied below the leaders.

The edge in the sensational slinging duel between Sieverts and Reigel belonged to Sieverts, although the Asheville boy allowed only one hit—by Catcher John Lewis—while the Jaycees were touching Sieverts for three safeties. Sieverts fanned 15, allowed only one walk, and struck out the dangerous Gary Phifer to put out a flaming Jaycee rally in the final frame with the winning run on third.

RIEGLER, ONE of three new players recently signed by Bob Steele's outfit, struck out an even dozen and walked five. It so happened the only walk handed out by Sieverts went to his mound opponent, and led to the only Jaycee marker.

There was little to choose between the two clubs as they put on the tightest tussle seen in LBL action so far this season. Steele added still more strength to his outfit, on top of the three-player deal, by putting Phifer behind the plate to catch the new pitcher.

Phifer, top class hurler in his own right, demonstrated he-like Rotary's Ralph Jones—can work effectively at both ends of a battery. The change made Sines available for duty at third base where he appeared to fit in better with the Jaycee machine.

Circleville's All-Stars play Linden A. C. of Columbus at the park Wednesday at 8 p. m. in a Central Ohio LBL game. The Little Stars, representing the best of the Little League, open their season here Friday night. Their game follows a city league contest, the LBL Elks and Rotary being slated to play off an early-season tie.

In Tuesday night's LBL tug-of-war, both teams went scoreless through the first two innings. In the Jaycee half of the first, Cromley beat out an infield roller for the first hit after Larry Fullen was safe on an error. However, Sieverts had already fanned Reigel, and the threat ended when Lewis caught Fullen trying to steal and Phifer struck out.

THE JAYCEES tallied their lone run in the third. After Hairston and McClure had fanned, Reigel coaxed the only Jaycee walk. He went to second on a passed ball and to third on a wild pitch. That's where he was when Fullen's rap slipped through first base and the Jaycee pitcher came home. The third out came when Fullen was nabbed stealing, Lewis to Emerine.

In the fifth, Kiwanis tied the score with two down. Leist, in for Emerine, walked and made his way to third on a theft and wild pitch. Heeter and Weller were out on strikes, but McCain walked and Leist came in on a wild pitch a moment later. Garner fanned.

Both clubs turned on extra gas in the final sixth and both registered hits, but no runs. Lewis smashed a clean single out of Cromley's reach into right and Strawser was safe on Fullen's error. The runners moved to second and third. At this stage, Fullen's alert backing up kept a run from scoring and nearly caught Lewis off third when Phifer threw wild trying to catch the Kiwanis receiver. Kerr was called out on strikes and Lewis was out trying to steal home.

In the Jaycee half, Sines fanned but Reigel singled to left and made his way to second. Fullen rapped to Sieverts who threw to third and Reigel was called out at the hot corner. Fullen stole second, and men were on first and third after Cromley's high bouncer fooled Sieverts for a scratch infield hit.

It was nobody's game when Phifer went down on strikes. ACROSS THE PARK in the Little League, the Jaycees piled up a fat margin behind their new twirler, Don Wellington, had the game won at the end of the fifth. The victors pushed five tallies across in the sixth for good measure.

Kiwanis rallied to overcome an early Jaycee lead and were out in front, 5 to 4, at the end of the third. Then Red Wilson's boys began an attack that Phifer and Bell both had trouble in checking.

Asa Elisea was a slugging demon for Jaycees, clouting a homer with the bases full, a triple and a double. Purcell also had a homer, and Don Wellington helped win his own game with a triple while the sacks were loaded. Stewart hit a home run for Kiwanis.

One of the first twin killings of the little loop season was engineered for the Jaycees by Shortstop Bob Gulick. With a man on second, he took a fast grounder, tagged the passing runner and then threw first for the double play.

Starting batting order of the LBL game:
Jaycees — Reigel, p; Fullen, ss; Cromley, 1b; Phifer, c; Davis, lf; Camp, 2b; Kelly, cf; Hairston, rf; Sines, 3b. Gentzel replaced Hairston.

Kiwanis — Wilkinson, rf; Garner, cf; Lewis, c; Strawser, ss; Sieverts, p; Johnson, 1b; Emerine, 3b; McClure, 2b; Weller, lf; McCain went in for Wilkinson, Kerr for Johnson, Leist for Emerine, Heeter for McClure, and Wolford for Weller.

Starting batting order of the Little League game:
Jaycees — J. Wellington, 2b; Purcell, 1b; Strawser, c; Elisea, 3b; Robinson, cf; Gulick, ss; Ward, rf; D. Wellington, p; Wilson, lf.

Kiwanis — Jones, 2b; Phifer, p; Schneider, c; Bell, ss; Stewart, 1b; Gerhardt, 3b; Morrison, lf; Kirkpatrick, cf; Hannahs, rf.

Reed Registers Second No-Hit, No-Run Win For Top Hat Crew

Kenneth Reed twirled his second no-hit, no-run victory of the season Tuesday night in a league softball game in Washington C. H.

Reed tossed the Circleville Top Hat crew into a five-inning, 10-0 victory over Washington C. H. softballers. The game was called in the fifth because of the lopsided score.

The no-hitter Tuesday night gave the Hatters a record of three no-hitters to date for the season. Reed has hurled two of them in Washington C. H., and Stillman Morrison pitched a no-hitter in Bremen.

In Tuesday's test, Lloyd Minor provided the top scoring punch for the Hat crew, blasting out a bases-loaded homer in right field during the second inning. Reed connected for a three-bagger during the evening.

ONLY TWO of the 17 batters facing Reed managed to reach first base, accomplished on a Hatter infield error. Reed fanned 11 batters and walked one.

Top Hat is unbeaten to date in Washington C. H. league play. However, the Hat crew suffered a 1-0 setback Monday night in an exhibition test in Greenfield, losing by an unearned run in the final frame of the game.

The local softballers will play at London Friday night and will meet Sabina in Washington C. H. next Wednesday. Line score of Tuesday's no-hitter follows:
Washington 000 00 — 0 0 2
Top Hat 242 2x — 10 13 1

Moore's Claim 14-4 Victory

Moore's store softballers blasted out a 14-4 victory Tuesday night in Ted Lewis Park over Eshelman's in a city industrial softball league tilt.

Home runs by Mearns and Leasure were highlights of the high-scoring encounter, with Mearns, Payne and Whaley collecting three-baggers also for the Moore's aggregation.

Eshelman's collected its four counters on two safeties and two

Moore's errors. The Eshelman hits were rapped out by Redman and Courtney.

Line score of the game follows:

Moore's 011 145 2 — 14 19 2

Korea Battle Deaths One-Tenth Those Of World War II

32,000 Men Believed Dead In Conflict

Marine Corps Death Rate Is Highest; Army Is Next

Battle deaths among United States forces in Korea have been little more than one tenth the number killed in World War II.

More than 24,000 battle deaths among U. S. armed forces have been officially reported to next of kin during the three years of hostilities.

Allowing the deaths among men still listed as missing, the statisticians estimate that the United States battle death toll in Korea is about 32,000. In comparison, well over 50,000 battle deaths occurred in the Army land forces alone in the Pacific area during World War II.

The battle death rate in Korea, based upon the estimated total death toll of 32,000, averaged 3.5 men a year for each 1,000 men under arms from June 1950 to June 1953. During World War II, the average was 8.9 per 1,000 a year.

HEAVIEST LOSSES in Korea were suffered in the early months of the conflict. For the second half of 1950, the battle death rate for all Americans in the armed forces, based on notifications of next of kin, was 7.9 per 1,000 a year. The rate dropped to 3.2 in 1951 and to 1.3 in 1952. It was 1.1 up to June 12 of this year.

As in World War II, the Marine Corps has suffered relatively heavier losses in Korea than any other branch of service. The Marine Corps battle death rate in Korea averaged 7.1 per 1,000 a year, allowing for the probable dead among those listed as missing.

The corresponding average for the Army was 6.3; for the Air Force, 9.5; and for the Navy, 0.2. The World War II rates were 14.3 for the Marine Corps, 9.4 for the Army (which then included the Air Force), and 4.2 for the Navy.

Navy and Marine Corps reports show the death rate from disease was actually lower for the Korean War period than for the peacetime years 1946 to 1949, statisticians point out.

The very low death rate from

Food And Water Should Be Close For Top Results

Here is some advice offered by hog men at the South Dakota Experiment Station: "Don't make those Shoats you're fattening walk too far to feed or water. If you do, you'll be lucky if it doesn't cost you money."

Workers at the South Dakota station last Summer spaced feeders and waterers at various distances. The further apart they were, the slower the gains.

That was because the pigs drank less water and ate less feed as the distance they had to walk was increased. Four groups of 20 pigs each were used in the test. Where the distance was 20 feet, the pigs ate 5.71 pounds of feed a day, drank 1.23 gallons of water apiece and made daily gains of 1.60 pounds.

ONE LOT HAD to walk 560 feet between waterer and feeder. They drank 12 per cent less water, ate nearly 11 per cent less feed and made 10 per cent slower gains. That is something to remember if you plan to hog-down corn this fall.

Hog prices usually decline in the Fall. Suppose your pigs weigh 50 pounds when you take them to pasture, and you want to sell them at 225 pounds? They must gain 175 pounds. At the rate the South Dakota pigs grew, that would require 110 days when feeders and waterers are 20 feet apart; 121 days when they're 560 feet apart. That extra 11 days can make a lot of difference in the price.

Watch prices this Fall when you sell your first bunch of pigs. Compare that price with the quotation 11 days later. Nine times out of ten, you'll lose money in the later market.

Vacation Drivers Urged To Follow All Traffic Rules

State Highway Patrolman Bob Greene of Circleville reminds vacation motorists their safety depends on observing traffic rules and regulations whenever they drive.

"You can't take a vacation from the traffic laws," Greene warned.

"It doesn't matter whether you're driving right here in Ohio or 1,000 miles from here," Greene said. "You'll get into trouble unless you drive within the law."

Many people, he said, have an idea that they're not responsible if they don't know the law. They think a plea of ignorance will excuse a traffic violation they commit when traveling outside their home state.

"THEY'RE DEAD wrong," Greene said. "Ignorance of the law excuses no one. A tourist is expected to know the traffic laws of the states through which he travels."

"Ordinarily, that's not difficult to do. For instance, it's a simple matter to observe all road signs and to watch for and heed local speed limit postings."

As for less obvious regulations, the tourist should acquaint himself with them before starting his trip, if possible. He can either consult his local officials or automobile as-

Portsmouth Due For Airport Bond

WASHINGTON — Portsmouth, Ohio, will be given serious consideration if Congress appropriates money to help build airports, a Civil Aeronautics Administration spokesman said Tuesday.

The spokesman explained if the money is appropriated, it would be up to the CAA to determine what airport gets it. In its original recommendation, the CAA asked for $30 million for airports of the nation, with $110,000 earmarked for an airport near Portsmouth to serve the huge atomic plant going up there.

Usually regarded as an industrial state, Connecticut is the second highest state in the nation in the value per acre of its farm products—$112.
